Roosevelt Calls on Congress to Liberalize Social Security Act

FINDS HIGHWAY FILES BURNED, ORDERS PROBE

State Director Says Sabotage of Personnel Records Found in 10 Division Offices.

CHECKS ASHLAND RECORDS

Shaffer Makes Inqury; Says 3 of 56 Workers Laid Off From This County.

Sabotage of the personnel files in all but one of the highway department division offices brought a quick investigation today by Director Robert S. Beightler, who promised "some interesting revelations," International News Service dispatches from Columbus said today.

Beightler said the order to subordinates to get rid of all correspondence pertaining to personnel "came from someone in the main office, but as yet I have not been able to find out who it was."

Intact In One Office.

The burned correspondence was discovered this mornnig in 10 of the division offices while in one the fire had not completely destroyed the files and Beightler said a portion of the letters was salvaged. In only one office were the records intact, he said.

The highway department director refused to say in which offices the correspondence was destroyed.

Murray D. Shaffer, engineer in the Ashland division, including Richland county, said personal correspondence was missing from the files of his office at Ashland, but he was unable to say how much had been destroyed.

Finds No Evidence.

"I am investigating the matter now, but so far I have found no evidence that the personnel records were tampered with," he said.

He revealed that only three of the 56 state highway workers in the Ashland division who were dismissed Saturday by State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler were in Richland county.

They were Richard Bewley, Ira Matthews, and Mike Zgala, all employed in the county maintenance department at Mansfield.

They were given jobs in the final weeks of the Davey administration, and were considered "unnecessary," Shaffer said.

Dismissal of the 56 employes in the Ashland division, who receive an average of $100 a month, will result in a yearly saving of $67,200, Shaffer added.

Director Beightler today announced the dismissal of resident highway engineers in six central Ohio counties in his program to

Asleep for 3 of Her 5 Years

The recent fifth birthday of Maxine Yarrington, sleeping sickness victim of Erie, Pa., marked little change in the condition of the child who has been in a coma for more than three years. Though her blue eyes are open most of the time, Maxine sees nothing. The hospital has received thousands of letters for the girl, offering sympathy and suggesting cures.

You'll Get Laugh From Dagwood and Blondie Bumstead

There's a laugh in store for you at the bottom of the first page of the second section.

Dagwood Bumstead, Blondie's husband, is the chap who'll give you the laugh. You'll also meet Blondie and Baby Dumpling, principal characters in the comic strip "Blondie." All of them, in the days to come, will provide a chuckle.

There's no need to tell you to read "Blondie" daily—because you will, anyhow.

Tomorrow, a new serial story starts, written by an author who has long been a favorite with News-Journal readers. It's "There Is Only One," from the pen of Margaret Gorman Nichols. A brand-new first run serial, that will hold your interest from the first chapter to the last—which is the 30th.

SOCIETY SHAKY

Socialites Expected to Be Called in Smuggling Quiz.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— About 15 persons, some of them believed to be young matrons prominent in New York cafe society, will be subpenaed today for questioning into their possible "business" connections with Albert N. Chaperau, confessed smuggler for screen and radio celebrities.

Papers found in the effects of Chaperau, federal authorities revealed, have involved at least 12 young women in the same net of smuggling activities which already has caught comedians George Burns and Jack Benny.

Notes jotted down by Chaperau, self-styled Nicaraguan commercial attache who unsuccessfully pleaded diplomatic immunity, possibly may ensnare still other celebrities in the amusement world, it was said.

PAPER SUSPENDS IN MILWAUKEE

Hearst Publication Leaves Afternoon Field Effective Today.

MILWAUKEE — Suspension of the Milwaukee News, afternoon newspaper, announced Saturday, became effective today, leaving Milwaukee with only three newspapers, the Journal, Sentinel and the Leader.

The News and the Sentinel were both owned by William Randolph Hearst. The Sentinel took over the News and will continue to be published as a morning paper, leaving the afternoon field to the Milwaukee Journal and Milwaukee Leader.

TRAFFIC TAKES FIRST '39 LIFE

Shelby Woman, Injured 3 Days Ago at Crossing, Dies; Four Hurt on Slippery Roads.

Richland county's first fatal traffic accident of the year claimed the life yesterday morning at Shelby Memorial hospital of a 36 - year - old mother who was injured in an auto-train collision Thursday.

Richland County's 1939 Traffic Toll

This date last year—1

The first traffic death of 1939 was eight days later than the first fatal crash a year ago.

Slippery roads and a snow storm over the week-end resulted in several traffic accidents, in which four were injured.

Mrs. LeRoy Vogt, Shelby, died from a fractured skull and internal injuries received last Thursday when her auto was struck by a freight train at the Gamble street crossing. She was alone in the car at the time of the accident. The crossing was protected by flashers.

Mrs. Vogt, who was born in Fort Wayne, July 5, 1902, had lived in Shelby for 33 years. She was a member of the Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic church.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Rosemary; her mother, Mrs. Anna Till, Shelby; a brother, Clem Till of Shelby Settlement; and a sister, Sister Claudia of the Convent of the Visitation, Toledo.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday at St. Mary's church with the Rev. Michael MacFadden officiating. Burial will be in the cemetery at Shelby Settlement.

STIRS SENSATION

Jap Paper Says Nippon Would 'Smash American Fleet.'

TOKYO —(AP)— The newspaper Kokumin declared editorially today that "the Japanese people are determined to smash the American fleet" if the United States intends "to get a political foothold in China" by fortifying the Guam and Wake islands.

The article, which caused a sensation in Tokyo, demanded to know "the real intentions of the American people in the western Pacific, not those of the president or the state department."

PUSH PLAN TO COMBINE U.S. RELIEF UNITS

Senate Group Recommends Consolidation to Give Jobs to Persons Idle 13 Weeks.

STUDIES APPROPRIATION

Upper Chamber Opens Debate on Slashed WPA Fund Which House Approved.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A bi-partisan proposal to combine all relief activities in a public works department overshadowed senatorial discussion today of the $725,000,000 emergency WPA bill.

Although no effort was being made to write this suggestion into the appropriation measure, members were looking ahead to the time—only a few weeks distant—when they must decide on future relief policies in general.

House Backing Looms.

The only argument over the appropriation bill itself was the amount to be authorized. There was every indication that a senate subcommittee would follow the lead of the house in cutting $150,000,000 from the $875,000,000 asked by President Roosevelt.

Simultaneously with the subcommittee meeting, congressional leaders were called to the White House for their weekly conference on legislative strategy. Here, too, relief was the paramount subject.

The recommendation to consolidate relief agencies came during the week-end from a special senate unemployment committee headed by Senator Byrnes (D-SC) Republican committeemen, although agreeing with the Democratic majority that a permanent public works department would be advisable, declared the majority did not go far enough toward taking politics out of relief.

Embraces Four Agencies.

The new department would include the WPA, the PWA, and CCC, and the National Youth administration. Unemployment registration agencies would be merged, and the present system of unemployment compensation would be simplified.

The committee suggested that unemployment compensation range from $5 to $15 a week. If at the end of 13 weeks the recipient had not obtained a job in private industry, he would be placed on a public works project.

DODD INDICTED

Former U. S. Envoy Accused of Leaving Accident Scene.

HANOVER COURTHOUSE, Va.—(INS)—Dr. William E. Dodd, former United States ambassador to Germany, was indicted by a grand jury of five Virginia farmers today on a charge of running down a five-year-old colored girl with his automobile and then fleeing from the scene of the accident.

If found guilty, the ex-envoy would be liable to maximum penalties of five years in prison or a $5,000 fine, or both.

His offense, however, under Virginia law might be determined to be only a misdemeanor. If he is convicted on the lesser charge he would be fined only a few dollars

NEED UMBRELLA? TRY THIS STORE

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Faith in human nature reached a new high in Cincinnati today.

As shoppers sloshed their way through slush and rain, a department store advertised:

"Just ask for the loan of an umbrella. No 'cover charge.' All we ask is your name and address and that you'll return it in a day or two so that you may borrow it again."

MURDER SOLVED

Two Confess In Robbery, Police Slaying In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Acting Detective Inspector Charles O. Nevel announced today two colored men admitted taking part in a department store holdup last Friday in which their companion, Robert Fortner, 19, and Patrolman James Goggin were shot to death.

Nevel said the two men confessed they acted as look-out and driver of the escape car in the robbery, and implicated a fourth man who is still sought.

Looking at August— Hunter Vs. Whom?

Mayor Announces He Will Seek 2nd Term On His Record; Who Will Carry G. O. P. Hopes Big Question Mark Now.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

A cold winter day may be a long way from a hot political campaign, but two things in the Mansfield political situation definitely developed today.

One is that Mayor Claude M. Hunter will be a candidate to succeed himself. In case you didn't know it, he is a Democrat.

The other is that the Republicans don't know who'll be a candidate—or whether there will be more than one.

It can be expected that Mayor Hunter will not have opposition in his campaign for re-nomination, the practice being to permit an incumbent to go through the primary unopposed.

The mayor today definitely put himself in the August campaign.

Handles 'Hot Potatoes.'

"Well," said Hunter, asked about his August intentions, "we've had some 'hot potatoes' to handle during my first year, but you can say I'll be a candidate for a second term. And the platform will be the accomplishments of my first term."

Of the several "hot potatoes" the mayor said he believed the hottest one was relief—and that it gave no indications of cooling off.

Political gossip has it that Paul L. Kelley, now serving his seventh term—and the last one a four-year one at that—will be out for his eighth term. And that Marion D. Ward, serving his first term as solicitor, will be after re-nomination.

There hasn't been much talk about opposition to either as yet.

Indications are that Philip Smith, former city councilman, will return to the political arena this year—perhaps seeking the presidency of council. He ran for the mayoralty nomination once, didn't get it, and still has a yearning to be the city's chief executive.

Karl Troll is now council president, which would mean that if he seeks renomination, he will be opposed by Smith. If he doesn't run, George Berg may be a candidate, which means that no matter what happens there'll be a contest for the Democratic nomination for that post.

You can expect Glen Davidson to seek re-nomination for treasurer.

Ask a Republican leader who'll represent the party in the August primary, and you'll get no answer. They just don't know.

The name of C. S. Fernyak, one-time councilman and later party chairman, has been mentioned, but Fernyak denies any such aspirations.

John Hess, central committee chairman, is reported to have said recently that he had "no idea" who might run for mayor.

Glenn L. Bierly opposed Mayor Hunter in 1937, but has not since been active in municipal politics. He is a former executive committee chairman.

Of course, the party will have candidates for all the city offices—with perhaps the exception of the sixth ward council seat—but it's a wide open question as to who'll run.

The Democrats, on the other hand, have their line-up pretty well set.

Turns Down Pay Increase For Employes of County

Commissioners Hold Payroll 2 Days After Getting Request; Checks Issued Today Minus Boosts.

Requests for pay increases for a number of county employes caused county commissioners to hold up the pay checks of county workers Saturday, it was learned today.

When the salary checks, totaling about $3,500, were approved today they did not include the requested increases which were said to have ranged from $2 to $10 a month.

The pay checks, first in 1939 for county workers, were to have been issued Saturday, since the 15th, the regular pay day, fell on Sunday.

Totaled 'About $1,600.'

The requests for increases, which commissioners said amounted to "about $1,600," were understood to have come principally from the offices of County Treasurer John E. Kolb, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Probate Judge C. J. Anderson.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, said, "We didn't think it was reasonable to grant pay increases when there is no money available for other functions of county government."

He denied that there had been any dispute over the requests, adding that "we usually get some requests every year that we can't grant."

The county's operating appropriation for 1939 was approximately $680 less than in 1938, which Mitchell said obviously would not permit any increases this year. The county appropriated $338,460 for operation in 1939.

Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the head of each department, or the elected office holder, submits his request at the opening of each year for a certain amount for salaries of his appointed employes. Commissioners must approve the requests before the pay orders to go to the treasurer.

JAIL BUNDERS

Los Angeles Police Confiscate Anti-Semitic Handbills.

LOS ANGELES —(U.P.)— Five German-American bund leaders, including west coast Director Herman Schwinn, were threatened with criminal syndicalism charges today after police had confiscated 10,000 anti-Semitic handbills.

The handbills were to have been distributed, police said, before daybreak Sunday. They were confiscated at a bund costume ball. The dodgers urged "Christian vigilants" to "arise," and read:

"Buy Gentile. Employ Gentile. Vote Gentile. Boycott the movies! Hollywood is the Sodom and Gomorrha, where international Jewry controls vice—dope—gambling; where young Gentile girls are raped by Jewish producers, directors, casting directors who go unpunished."

MUMPS CLOSES SCHOOL

LEBANON — (AP) — Edward Blair, Warren county health commissioner, said today the school at nearby Mason would be closed for a week because 65 pupils have the mumps.

Victory Near?

With a speedy advance bringing Spanish insurgent forces nearer to Barcelona, General Francisco Franco (above) and his military leaders today were predicting an early end to the Spanish civil war. After a day in which astonishing progress was made, an insurgent general predicted the capture of Barcelona within a month.

FRANCO'S ARMY SEIZES CERVERA

(By Associated Press)

HENDAYE, France — (At the Spanish Frontier) — The Spanish insurgent command today reported capture of Cervera in a swift drive toward Barcelona along the center of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's 100-mile front in Catalonia.

Cervera, an important town of 4,000 inhabitants, lies within 50 miles directly west of the government capital on the highway from Lerida. Roads connecting the Lerida-Barcelona highway with government territory to the north and south join at Cervera.

Franco's central Catalonian column laid siege to the town yesterday. His commanders reported that government defenses there were smashed this morning, clearing the way for a new eastward thrust to the next immediate objective, Igualada, about 29 miles nearer Barcelona.

The insurgents' lower Catalonian forces, which had captured Tarragona at the coast and pushed into Barcelona province inland at Bellprat, were reported veering north toward Igulada to combine with the central column for a mass drive on Barcelona.

Jubilant insurgent army columns installed themselves in positions east of strategic Tarragona for a new attack against a secret defense line barring their way to Barcelona and the possible end of the Spanish civil war.

The capture yesterday of Tarragona, second city of Catalonia, put insurgent advance guards within 56 miles along the Mediterranean coast from the government capital and within 37 miles of Barcelona along the interior front.

Defense Location Mystery.

Reports reaching the frontier said insurgent field commanders know there is a second government defense line between Tarragona and Barcelona, although they

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Funeral arrangements were made today for Richard Calland, who died from a bullet wound which resulted when a small rifle held by an older brother was accidentally discharged.

Frankfurter and Murphy Win Okay of Senate Committees

WASHINGTON — The senate judiciary committee approved today appointment of Felix Frankfurter to the supreme court and Frank Murphy as attorney general.

This action sent President Roosevelt's appointments to the senate floor for expected confirmation early this week.

The full judiciary committee acted at a closed session after subcommittee had conducted hearings and unanimously approved both appointments.

Murphy, former governor of Michigan, who was defeated in the November election was named attorney general to succeed Homer Cummings, who resigned.

Frankfurter, noted liberal and Harvard law instructor, was appointed to the vacancy resulting from the death of the late Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

In recommending favorable action on Prof. Frankfurter and Attorney General Murphy, the full judiciary committee disregarded a series of charges directed at both. It was widely predicted that the senate vote for confirmation would be overwhelming. Only a few votes, if any, will be cast against either appointee, it was indicated.

The nominations will remain on the senate calendar for a day before Chairman Ashurst (D) Arizona, of the judiciary committee, will request action. Unless there is an unforseen difficulty, the nominations will be approved tomorrow.

MESSAGE ASKS BROADER PLAN FOR PENSIONS

HITS 'UNSOUND' PLANS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt recommended to congress today wide expansion of the Social Security act and warned at the same time against "turning to untried and demonstrably unsound panaceas."

The expansion program he called for included beginning old age insurance benefits sooner and liberalizing them in the early years, affording greater protection to dependent children, extending unemployment and old age protection as rapidly as possible to "all of our people" and increasing in some instances federal grants-in-aid to states.

Wants Merit System.

He also proposed that states receiving federal aid be required to institute merit systems for the personnel of agencies handling social security funds.

"I cannot too strongly urge the wisdom of building upon the principles contained in the present social security act in affording greater protection to our people," the president said, "rather than turning to untried and demonstrably unsound panaceas."

His message made no direct reference, however, to old age pension proposals.

The president emphasized the desirability of affording greater old age security. He described as sound a "two-fold approach" recommended by the social security board on this point.

"One way," he said, "is to begin the payment of monthly old age insurance benefits sooner, and to liberalize the benefits to be paid in early years.

"The other way is to make proportionately larger federal grants in aid to those states with limited fiscal capacities, so that they may provide more adequate assistance to those in need. This result can

Myrna Makes Her First Visit Here On Parole Board

Mrs. Myrna Smith, former executive secretary for Gov. Martin L. Davey made her first visit in Mansfield today as a member of the Ohio Board of Parole which is here to review the cases of 175 inmates at the Ohio State reformatory.

Mrs. Smith, who was Davey's secretary for four years, was appointed by the former governor during his last days in office to succeed Craig N. McBride of Hillsboro whose term expired on Dec. 31.

She is the first women member ever to be appointed to the parole board which pays $6,000 annually. Other members of the board here for the sessions which will continue for three days are H. W. Jewell, Delaware, and Frank T. Sotak, Cleveland. Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom of Wilberforce, the fourth member, was absent when the board convened this forenoon.

FINAL TRIBUTE

Babe Ruth, Gehrig Among Pall-Bearers For Ruppert.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Funeral services for the late Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees who died last Friday, were to be held today. Burial will be in the family vault at Kensico, (N. Y.) cemetery.

Among the honorary pall-bearers were Babe Ruth, former Mayor James J. Walker, Mayor Laguardia, former governor Alfred E. Smith, Ford Frick, president of the National league, William Harridge, president of the American league, and Lou Gehrig, Yankee captain.

SLAYING SUSPECT

Youngstown To Quiz Man In Butcher-Knife Murder.

DENVER —(INS)— Two Youngstown, Ohio, police officers prepared to leave Denver today with Stephen Petrillo, 55, suspect in the butcher-knife slaying of Mrs. Mayme Richards, Youngstown housewife.

Mrs. Richards was found slain Dec. 5, in a room she had rented to Petrillo, who disappeared after the murder.

Lots of Smoke But No Fire, Firemen Are Late for Dinner

The "boys" at Central fire station, attired in aprons, were engaged in preparing their noonday meal at 11:30 a. m. when the telephone rang.

An excited feminine voice exclaimed that there was a fire in her house at 87 Ashland road.

There was a scurry for boots and coats and Chief Seeburger leaped to his car, and followed by a pumper, roared out of the station.

At the same time, company No. 4 received the alarm by private telephone, and answered the call.

At the door they were met by Mrs. Smith.

"It's in the basement," she exclaimed.

"Guess it is," replied Chief Seeburger, as he opened a basement door and a cloud of vapor rolled out.

Something was sizzling. It was in the furnace—but there was no fire.

Instead, firemen found that a hot water coil in the furnace had burst and had already put out the only fire in the house.

They obligingly shut off the water supply and returned to the station to a belated dinner.

At 8:15 p. m. yesterday companies Nos. 1 and 2 were called to the residence of Harry Shriver, 45½ Vale avenue, when fire of an undetermined origin threatened the living quarters over a grocery.

No estimate was made of the damage caused by the fire which had burned through a living room partition before firemen arrived.

Runaway Boys Kill Farmer, 71, As He Pleads for Life

Youths, 15 and 16, Shoot Aged Man After Ransacking Home, Getting $9 in Loot.

CARROLLTON, Mo.—(U.P.)—Two runaways from the state children's home calmly told police today how they killed a pleading old man to rob him, so they could "go out west."

"He wouldn't raise his hands and I just up and shot him," said Oliver Hammond, 16. Cleo Ramsey, 15, nodded assent.

All they got for killing J. W. S. (Jim) Bricken, 71, was $9. He lived alone on his farm near Leeton. Last summer he took in Hammond to work for him. When fall came Bricken sent him to school. The boy didn't like it and ran off to return to the children's home at Carrollton, 80 miles north of the Bricken farm.

Decide On 'Adventure.'

The home takes orphans and neglected children, studies them, and tries to find them good homes. The discipline is not rigid. But Hammond tired of it finally, and Wednesday enlisted Ramsey to set out with him for adventure.

They hitch hiked, ate cheese and crackers and late Thursday they arrived at Bricken's farm. They spent the night in the barn. Friday morning, Hammond said they waited until the old man walked a quarter-mile out to the mail box. They slipped into the house. Hammond knew it quite well. He found the farmer's .22 caliber rifle. The boys hid in a bedroom. Bricken sat down in the front room. Then Hammond came in, leveled the rifle and said: "Stick 'em up."

Bricken didn't. So Hammond shot him, he said. The small-bore bullet hit the old man in the chest and he fell. Hammond began tying his hands and feet while Ramsey ransacked the house.

Ramsey came back and helped Hammond finish the job. Hammond said the old man pleaded:

"I don't want to die. If you let me live I'll give you everything I have."

Pushed Under Bed.

They dragged and pushed him into the bedroom, under a bed. They selected Bricken's rifle, watch, blanket and several other articles that might be useful on their "trip." For they had decided to take his 1928 sedan. At last, a bundle made up, Hammond stopped at the door, aimed under the bed and shot Bricken in the head.

But the ancient automobile broke down. The boys spent $4 of their $9. "Out west" seemed farther away than ever. So they came back to the children's home Saturday.

Neighbors found Bricken's body. Officers recalled the boy who worked for the old man, checked the home, found he had been absent, and asked him where he had been. He told them.

Proposes Coal Bin In Lake Erie as Wartime Measure

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Shallow water off Cleveland's lakefront may become a gigantic coal bin.

Approximately 10,000,000 tons of coal—much of it from the mines of Ohio itself—would be stored beneath the water as a wartime emergency measure under a proposal suggested as part of the national defense program.

The "bin," 10 feet high and approximately 2,000 feet square, would be one of 10 similar emergency supplies to provide fuel for munitions, armament and other plants in an emergency.

The storage was proposed by Representative Edmiston (D-W. Va.), member of a house military affairs committee and an officer in the A. E. F. who well recalls coal transportation difficulties of World war days.

Besides the base at Cleveland, Edmiston proposed storage of coal in 10,000,000 ton lots at several other points on the Great Lakes, including Detroit, Chicago and Duluth, and in swamp lands along the Atlantic seaboard near Baltimore, New Jersey and New York, southern New England and Eastern New England industrial centers.

Up and Down THE STREET

Political rallies and speeches, probably as "hot" as those held during a major election, will be held by Mansfield Boy Scouts beginning this week and continuing until the Election, during the week of Jan. 30. Candidates for the various city offices have made arrangements to attend meetings of all scout troops and make political addresses. Some candidates have planned to show pictures of city and area scout activities, and nearly all of them have their own placards announcing their candidacy in all troop headquarters.

Col. Jake Ruppert, millionaire sportsman and brewer and owner of the New York Yankees, never forgot a promise, Frank Bissman, president of the Bissman Wholesale Grocery company, says. Ruppert, who was a friend of Bissman's of long standing, had promised the Mansfield man a baseball personally autographed by all of this year's world champion Yankees. The promise was made when the two were together last summer, and the ball was received by Bissman just eight days before Ruppert's death last week.

The personal correspondence of prisoners in the county jail is always troublesome to Sheriff E. P. Long and his deputies, who must check all of it, but their latest "headache" is a prisoner who wants to send a daily letter to President Roosevelt. Serving a term for driving without an operator's permit, the man writes neat letters to the president thanking him for following his advice in taking the country off the gold standard and for other New Deal measures. In one of his letters, the prisoner requested another copy of a letter he claims to have received from the president five years ago. The letter-writer repeatedly asks the sheriff for stationery for his letters to Washington, but his requests are usually refused.

All Richland county needs to make it the perfect resort for winter sports is snow. Yesterday when the hills around Mansfield were covered with snow there were almost as many enjoying the sports as you would find around Twin Mountain, N. H. There were skiiers, tobogganers, bob-sledders, and just plain sledders on the hills at Westbrook Country club, Possum Run and at Middle and South parks. And out over the country roads, there was the merry jingle of sleigh bells as big bob sleds and old fashioned sleighs, horse-drawn, literally "flew" over hills and through the woods.

TEACH FIRST AID

Red Cross Instructors Begin 6 New Classes This Week.

Six Red Cross first aid classes for school bus drivers, community and industrial groups and for the personnel of a new highway first aid station, will open this week, Harker A. Enlow, director of safety, announced today.

Complying with a recent state ruling that all school bus drivers must have Red Cross first aid training, thre classes are opening, one at Butler this evening, and others at Bellville and Lucas Wednesday evening.

A community class will be started at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Ehert on state route 61 between Plymouth and Shelby, and an industrial class at the Shelby Tube company plant.

The class for the new highway station will be held at the Yarger filling station at the intersection of the Bellville and Possum Run roads. Instructors for the six classes are Loyal Hartman, Harley Evans, Ira Haas, Lewis M. Campbell, M. E. Warner and Arthur White.

A school bus drivers class was started at Ontario last week under the instructions of Allen Bond.

FATHER SAVES 4, BATTLES DEATH

(By Associated Press)

LORAIN— Joseph Pruchnicki, 49, who rescued four members of his family from their flaming home before he collapsed in the snow, unable to return to the house to save his two-year-old son, was reported in critical condition with third degree burns in a hospital here today.

Pruchnicki was badly burned from the waist up.

He told Chief Deputy Sheriff C. J. Corby he awoke yesterday morning to find the kitchen of his two-room cottage, near the Elyria-Lorain road, in flames.

He aroused his wife, Alice, 37, and helped her from the house with their seven-months-old baby, Albert. Pruchnicki carried two other sons, Jake 6, and Walter, 4, to safety, and tried to return for his fourth son, Jackie 2, but collapsed.

Sheffield township volunteer firemen, under Chief Alfred Murrell, arrived soon after the fire started but were unable to combat the swiftly spreading blaze.

Murrell saw the child, Jackie, in the bedroom, and shouted, "There is a doll lying on the bed."

"No, No! That's Jackie," Mrs. Pruchnicki screamed, but the firemen then were unable to recover the body.

Jake and Walter were taken to a hospital for treatment for burns on the face and hands. Mrs. Pruchnicki and the baby suffered minor burns.

Pruchnicki said he thought the fire started from an explosion of a gas heating stove, but Murrell said a kitchen oil stove apparently toppled over.

STRICKEN AT 84

Myron McLaughlin, 84, who lived most of his life near Shiloh, died in the Shanabarger rest home here Saturday afternoon. He had been at the home only a few days.

A native of Bloominggrove township, Mr. McLaughlin is survived by a brother, Fred, of Bellville.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the McQuate funeral home in Shiloh, with Rev. F. W. Shirey of the Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Edwards Grove cemetery at Ripley.

TELEGRAMS SWAMP CAPITAL ON HEELS OF COUGHLIN'S APPEAL

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—A flood of telegrams inspired by Rev. Charles E. Coughlin protesting any change in the neutrality law or any modification in the embargo on war materials to Spain, rolled in on congress today.

Offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies here and in New York, Chicago, and Kansas City, reported themselved swamped with night letters addressed to members of congress, all in the same general vein.

While an exact comparison was not possible, traffic managers estimated that the volume was as heavy if not heavier as when Coughlin last asked his followers to telegraph congressmen at the time last year's government reorganization bill was about to be voted on in the house.

In his weekly radio sermon yesterday, Coughlin said the United States should keep "hands off the Spanish embargo" lest it be "regimented into another World war."

"Whether you can offord it or not, send a night letter to your congressman today or tomorrow," he said, "and let the United States government know that we refuse to be regimented into another World war through the back door of the Spanish embargo.

"The only way for America to keep out of war is to keep on keeping out of war. And this means neutrality; this means not engaging in the sale of arms, munitions and implements of war to the haters of christianity. This means not lifting the embargo on Spain or any other nation."

He said he believed that the American league for peace and democracy would persuade congress that the country wanted the embargo lifted.

In Washington, the Western Union had handled 18,000 telegrams by 8 p. m. From 8 p. m. until midnight, they came in at the rate of 10,000 an hour. After midnight, the flow dwindled to 4,000 an hour. Both Postal and Western Union were working extra forces.

FINE SUSPENDED

Hickman Ordered to Pay Damages to School Bus.

SHELBY—Charged with reckless driving, Phillip Hickman, 81 East Main street, was fined $5 and costs in Mayor D. B. Young's court Saturday. The fine and costs were suspended upon Hickman's agreement to pay the damages to a school bus involved in the traffic accident.

Hickman was arrested Friday by Shelby police on an affidavit filed by Cort Morse of Sharon township, driver of the school bus hit by Hickman's car at West Smiley avenue and North Gamble street, Thursday afternoon.

Thirty-seven grade school children on their way home in the bus escaped injury.

Although he pleaded not guilty, Hickman was convicted by the court of the charge of passing a vehicle at an intersection.

EXPERT FINDS ROOSEVELT AIM NOT EXCESSIVE

Business Must Be Willing to Take Chances and Progress, Economist Declares.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Achievement of an $80,000,000,000 national income this year to match American business receipts in 1929 "ought not to be too difficult," Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president and statistician of the Cleveland Trust company, said today.

Colonel Ayres, in his regular monthly review of the nation's business, supported President Roosevelt's belief, stated in his congressional message on the state of the union, that the 1939 national income should climb to $80,000,000,000.

"That is by no means an excessive aspiration," he said. "We had a tional income of about $80,000,000,000 in 1929 and now we have 9,000,000 more people in our population than we had then."

Business men must be willing to take a few chances and hold strong faith in the future, he said, if they expect to achieve the goal seen by Mr. Roosevelt.

"In order to have such a national income," he said, "we should have to do about five-fourths as much business as we did in 1937, and that ought not to be too difficult."

Risks Only Barrier.

The only barrier threatening such an income, he said, lies in the "relative unattractiveness of taking business risks." However, he added, all the ways of inducing increased business depend on the government's attitude toward profits.

Colonel Ayres urged business men to strive for restoration of "prospects for profits" by increasing the percentage of profit-making corporations in the country from 30 per cent, as it was in 1930, to 60 per cent, as it was before the 1929 crash.

"If business men had a high degree of confidence in the future," Colonel Ayres said, "they would base their policies on long term expectations. They would erect new factories and build additions, and then would equip them with new machinery.

"They would open new agencies, hire more workers, spend more for advertising, and do the other things that characterize expanding enterprise. They would do them if they thought they could afford to take present risks in the hope of making future gains, and if they believed they would be allowed to keep a reasonable part of the gains if they should succeed in making them."

SUCCUMBS AT 79

W. L. Trimble Was Lifelong Resident of County.

Willard Lincoln Trimble, 79, a lifelong resident of Richland county, died at the home of his son, Charles Trimble, near Lexington, Sunday night after a lingering illness.

Mr. Trimble was born in Springfield township, March 27, 1860, the son of James and Lucinda Murphy Trimble, and resided in that vicinity until five years ago when he made his home with his son. Trimble school, named in honor of his father, now stands on the farm where he was born.

Surviving are his wife, Sarah; four sons, Willard of Crestline, Lester of Cleveland, Leland of Mansfield and Charles of Troy township; four daughters, Mrs. Bert Craiger of Shelby, Mrs. Gail Heichel of Ontario, Mrs. Frank Cranner of Columbus and Mrs. Herbert Scarborough of Mansfield; a brother, Dr. C. E. Trimble of Crestline; a sister, Mrs. William Brooks of Springfield township, 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He was a member of the Ontario Community church.

Funeral services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 2 p. m., Wednesday with Rev. C. E. Hall of the Ontario Community church officiating. Burial will be in the Ontario cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Where Have Those Poor Urchins Gone? They've Wed Rich Man's Daughter

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The first author I ever read was Horatio Alger, who wrote about waifs of New York, most of them newsboys, although a few were crossing-sweepers and bootblacks, who slept on rags in unfurnished tenements around Baxter street at first, but lived in fine homes and rode in their own carriages later. In unusually hard times they slept on sidewalk gratings where the heat came up from the cellars.

The sidewalk-sweepers and bottblacks had a racket. One waif, or urchin, with an old broom would stall around a corner pretending to sweep the mud away as rich bankers and merchants came up to cross, and the other, with a shoe-shine outfit, would approach the victim and say, "Shine, Sir?" If the rich banker or merchant refused to buy a shine the sweeper with the broom would give it a swish in a puddle of water and splatter his shoes and pants.

Mr. Alger's stories were very inspiring, and such is the tenacity of early ideas, some people still have a mental picture of pinched and ragged little waifs selling papers on the streets of New York. There has been a small revival of the bootblack business, but most of the bootblacks are grown men. They appear to do little business, and one reason, I think, is that a man feels wicked about standing in the public while a fellow man, to say nothing of a child, kneels on the sidewalk shining his shoes. The crossing-sweeper, of course, is permanently out now that the streets are paved.

Mr. Alger's heroes were sanctimonious little heels. Always aloof from the unscrupulous characters of their age and set and forever squealing on burglars whom they had overheard plotting to climb the rich banker's porch.

Eventually they married his daughter and in a standardized ending discovered that they were not really waifs at all but orphans who had been robbed of their inheritance and turned adrift by thieving uncles who inevitably were brought to justice.

But there are no little merchants selling sheets these days and aside from an occasional yelp out of the men who handle the early morning editions from fixed posts in the drinking quarters of town, the old street cries of journalism are stilled.

If a person wants a paper he steps up and buys it from a man or woman at a newsstand who may be a salaried employe of a soulless corporation, and if not is anyway a business operator, no more likely to leave the little plant unguarded and go hustling individuals in the traffic than the manager of a big department store.

Perhaps if a war broke out in Europe a few huskies would grab bundles and go howling through the streets with the old cry of "Extra!" variously delivered as "Wuxtry!" "Extry!" and "Wow! Read about it." But that would be a revival.

The news merchants distinctly are not urchins, and it is nobody's business what they do in their spare time, but they do not sleep on sidewalk gratings to keep warm. The police wouldn't allow that, and anyway the owners of buildings are not spending money for fuel to heat the great outdoors. They must have been very inefficient in Mr. Alger's day.

It seems an unfair reproach to the newspaper business that there continues to exist in New York a famous institution under the name of the Brace Memorial Newsboys' Home. Why should public charity support a home for the employes of a big, rich industry? Why not, also, an office clerks' home and a bank employes' home?

But Mr. Kelly, of the Brace Memorial home, assures me that his institution is now a newsboys' home in name only. Newspaper row has vanished from the vicinity of William street, the roster of daily papers has been halved in 20 years, there are hardly any city waifs, newsboys are not homeless, and in the last three years only one newsboy has slept at the Brace Memorial Newsboys' home, founded as such in 1850.

There are 90 guests in the home today, 25 locals and 65 transients, and not a single newsboy, and the bulk of the trade usually is made up of out-of-town strays who have met ex-guests on the road who recommended the place.

Once I did meeet in Palm Beach, where he was drinking wine, a professional self-made rough-diamond of the city streets who said he used to sleep at the newsboys' home occasionally as a youth, but when pinned down admitted that he was a little bum by nature, with a home on the west side that was good enough for his brothers and sisters.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Actors should never complain. The dirtiest deal is likely as not to turn itself into double-O on the roulette wheel of movie fortune.

Look at Walter Brennan. Two months ago I saw this young-old man of the movies and he was all fired up with plans for a picture called "Jesse James." If he got through in time—he was working then on "The Cowboy and the Lady"—he would get a choice part in the bandit's life story. Everything was set—practically. He could see himself in the saddle, riding on to bigger things.

But no. Goldwyn's factory didn't finish the picture in time. "Jesse James" took Henry Hull instead. Walter didn't know about it until the last minute. He was sore.

So he goes into an unpretentious little picture at 20th-Century-Fox. It's called "Kentucky" and Walter plays a fine old crotchety, feuding colonel—and then it turns out to be a very fine, much ballyhooed picture and Walter runs away with the acting honors.

And Walter's boss Goldwyn is so impressed when he sees it that he plans to "include him in" in a large way hereafter in Goldwyn plans!

The debonair George Sanders ("Lancer Spy," "Four Men and a Prayer," etc.) is now the Saint, replacing Louis Hayward who with "Duke of West Pomt" has gone on to better things.

Sanders is now in his third phase of Hollywood development. The first had him tabbed as "the hermit of Laurel Canyon," a lonely soul living apart from the world with his book and—presumably—his dog. The second sent him to live alone—presumably with book and dog—on a yacht in the harbor. The third:

"Since returning from London where I made a couple of films, I've lived in a hotel—and this is the bright lights-and-crowds phase, I suppose."

The English Mr. Sanders half-suspects that his Laurel Canyon hermitage was the device of a desperate publicist unable to find "color" in his quite normal life and therefore forced to invent it.

As the Saint, a wrong-avenger who hates crime, Sanders is engaged presently on "The Saint Strikes Back"—at what, however, he had no idea.

But what I started to relate was his whimsical idea, which any producer may have gratis, for assembling all the screen's series heroes and heroines into one gigantic series film.

Charlie Chan, Mr. Moto, the Thin Man, Bulldog Drummond, the Saint could combine sleuthing efforts, aided by Torchy Blane and Nancy Drew, and cheered on by the Jones, Hardy, and Higgins families, with Bronx cheers from the Dead End Kids and the Little Tough Guys.

The manly art of self-defense, in Victor McLaglen's current plight, includes giving Nelson Eddy lessons in how to knock him out.

The big dread of a professional movie fighter, tangling with an amateur, is that his opponent will forget to pull his punches.

That's what almost happened the first day Eddy and McLaglen "worked out" together. The over-eager Eddy zoomed an uppercut that Vic barely dodged. After that Vic turned tutor—showing his partner how to put him to sleep, for the movies, less painfully.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, January 16.

Lucy, Dear:

Well, here we are practically snowed under again. And I do hope you aren't of an envious nature, Lucy, because nearly all the news I have for you today is about the lucky people who are vacationing in Florida and thereabouts.

* * * * *

WADE and Frances Uhlich are touring the entire state of Florida . . . and plan to stop off at the principal cities which appeal to them most. They won't be back in our town until early next month.

* * * * *

Another Florida-goer is Mrs. Emma Stone who left Saturday for Miami . . . and plans to stay until March. Harry Wineland is also vacationing in Miami these days . . . and Mrs. Wineland is going to join him there about the first of February.

* * * * *

And while we're still on the subject of Florida, I mustn't forget to tell you of the very fine trip which Flora and Emerson Weller are starting on this Wednesday . . . They're going to drive down to Hollywood, Fla., (and stop off in Morgantown, W. Va., to see their son, Carl). They plan to remain in the south until spring returns to our frozen north. Flora must be finding it pretty difficult packing—because there have been several parties in her honor these past few days . . . with another one this afternoon.

* * * * *

I SAW Emily Burns rushing down the street with a large traveling bag Saturday noon . . . too hurried even to hear my "hello" . . . but then I couldn't blame her for being excited as she was catching the bus for a week-end in Columbus and a formal dance at Ohio State—her alma mater.

* * * * *

There are so many busy Mansfielders these days that I can hardly keep track of them all long enough to tell you of their doings. Mrs. Anna Knote has trouble making the days as long as they should be for all the things she has to do—she's the national secretary of her college fraternity, Alpha Xi Delta, you know . . . And the national headquarters of that organization are right here in Mansfield at 119 Carpenter road. Mrs. Knote is also a member of the fraternity's national council . . . and (with the exception of 1937) she's attended every annual council meeting since 1914. During the past college year, she has visited 14 college chapters and nine alumnae chapters . . . a good many trips for any one person!

* * * * *

And Ferdinand the Bull's popularity goes on and on. One of our drugstores has him by the literal gross. Bakelite Ferdinands about six inches high with yellow hoofs and purple eyes . . . and big yellow daisies in their mouths . . . and their legs are so flexible that the Ferdinands assume any number of positions. One of our music shops has scores of the popular Ferdinand records to accompany him, too.

* * * * *

MRS. RUSSELL MAXWELL is visiting here now. You remember her, Lucy . . our famous Dick Maxwell's mother. She's staying with Mrs. Ralph Schad, sr., on Davis road for several weeks before returning to her home in Westfield, N. J. And she says Dick is as busy as ever and as usual has several singing irons in the musical fire.

* * * * *

While we more unfortunates sit at home and long to see the world—those lucky individuals like Hazel Underwood sail around the globe several times. Hazel is starting on another world cruise by freighter from California in two weeks. She plans to go to Los Angeles and sail through the Pacific—visiting all the small islands in that ocean, as well as Australia, China and Manilla. She'll be gone four months and plans to return to San Francisco on the liner Franconia as it completes its world tour. Oh Lucy, wouldn't a trip like that be hard to take, though!

* * * * *

Here's one for Ripley—or local dog lovers, anyway. The Western Reserve Kennel club in Cleveland has a dog school every Sunday morning . . . when fond masters take their pride and joy puppies to the class. There are beginning and advanced classes—where young pups learn to obey commands and gay old dawgs learn the most difficult tricks . . . There's instruction for owners, too—which they must practice on the pups during the week until the next Sunday's class . . . Educated dogs . . . I wonder if the diploma is a ring of sausage or a lump of chocolate.

* * * * *

Do write me soon . . . and please don't tell me you're planning a trip to Florida, too . . . leaving me without consolation in this snow-covered state!

Lovingly,

MARIANNE.

Student Recital Presented Sunday Before 250 Guests

Following the concert recital given by students of Edith Fletcher Jameson's last night at St. John's Evangelical church, a group of 25 friends of Mrs. Jameson's were entertained at a reception at her home on Blymyer avenue. The performers and friends met Mrs. Jameson's guests of honor, Mme. Yolandi, former instructor of the Mansfield teacher, and Mrs. Sidney Rolley, both of Cleveland.

Mrs. Jameson presented several vocal numbers, Margaret Hall played piano selections, and Marie Moore sang at the home, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Assisting artists at the concert last night were Mrs. Hall, Miss Charlet Cellars, and Lawrence Chamberlain. Those appearing before the audience of 250 were Harry Brown, Doris Ranck, Florence DeVine, Arthur Boyce, Harriett Johnston, Lawrence Bergstrom, and Betty Austin. Encore numbers were presented by the students.

Mr. and Mrs. Bear To Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

TOMORROW afternoon between the hours of 1 and 5 p. m. and again in the evening from 7 to 9 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bear, 600 Lexington avenue, will receive relatives and friends at their home in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Bear were married Jan. 17, 1889 at Mt. Zion in the church parsonage.

Saturday the couple entertained 24 relatives at a family dinner. The long table was beautifully decorated with an assortment of flowers including roses, snapdragons, Easter lilies and baby chrysanthemums.

Among the out-of-town relatives present were two nieces, Mrs. Ralph McMillan and Mrs. Harry Osborn of Marengo, and a grand niece, Mrs. Lois Patterson, and her daughter, Velma, who is a great grand niece of the celebrating couple.

Mr. Bear, who was an employe of the Ohio Suspender company (now the Ohio Textile Products company) for 35 years, at present is one of the directors of the Mansfield Telephone company.

Annual Report Reveals Work Done By Home Circle Group

WHEN 40 members of the Mother's Home circle met for a covered-dish dinner in the pavilion at North Lake park recently, Mrs. Irene Hines, president of the organization, gave the complete annual report of the welfare work of the circle.

During 1938, the club gave the following staple supplies to underprivileged families: 307 garments, 827 pairs of hose, 602 pairs of shoes, 27 pairs of rubbers, 22 pairs of galoshes, 192 pairs of gloves and mittens, 61 women's coats, 93 girls' coats, 304 men's, women's and children's hats, 5 men's three piece suits, 4 boy's three piece suits, 11 men's overcoats, 9 boy's overcoats, 42 bed comforts, 11 complete layettes, 2 large and 5 small rugs, 22 pieces of china, 4 chairs, 2 stands, 7 rolls of clean linen for invalids, 14 infant's comforts and quilts. The circle members also gave 12 families special care at Christmas time.

Memorial services were held during Friday's meeting for Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, Mrs. Bertha Finical Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, Mrs. Ida Nye, and Mrs. Mary Piper. Mrs. Emma Sword, Mrs. J. F. Lorentz, and Mrs. Catherine Robinson.

The next circle meeting will be Feb. 10 at North Lake park pavilion, when a committee composed of Mrs. George Hoover, Mrs. J. H. Sheriff, Mrs. Howard Conn, Mrs. Harry Traxler, Mrs. Harry Balliet, and Mrs. Grace Hoover, will be in charge of the arrangements.

DISCLOSE MARRIAGE AT SATURDAY PARTY

Affair at Gilkison Home Reveals Nuptials of Miss Suzanne Weber, Jack E. Pifer In Northern Ohio City.

THE marriage of Miss Suzanne Weber and Jack E. Pifer was announced Saturday evening when a group of Mr. Pifer's relatives gave a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gilkison, 571 Springmill street, in honor of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Pifer were married on Aug. 20, 1938, in Sandusky. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Weiss, 335 Fifth avenue, and Mr. Pifer is the son of A. J. Pifer, Springmill street.

After the dinner at the Gilkison home Saturday evening, the guests gave a pantry shower for the honoree, and the relatives presented them with a lamp.

The group played games during the evening, with prizes being won by Miss Betty Blackstone and Clyde Davis. The winners presented their prizes to Mrs. Pifer.

Mr. and Mrs. Pifer are both employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. They will reside temporarily at 428 Springmill street with Mr. Pifer's father.

Mrs. Pifer was graduated from St. Peter's high school in 1935, and Mr. Pifer was a member of the 1932 class at Weller township high school.

Two Affairs Honor Mrs. Egner Over Week-End

The past week-end was a busy one for Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Egner of Norwalk. Mrs. Egner was formerly Miss Barbara Stoll of this city. A group of Mansfielders motored to the Egner home on Saturday evening for a housewarming. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Piatt, the Misses Marjorie Pugh, Donna Bowman, Suzanna Stoll, and Bernice Cousins, and Alex Jonan and Peter Stoll, brother of Mrs. Egner, were the guests who attended the party from this city.

On Friday evening Mrs. Charles Piatt entertained at her home on Springmill street for Mrs. Egner. There were 10 guests present for the party, when they made a recipe book for the honoree.

Holiday Nuptial Told At Affair At Miss English's

When Miss Anita Louise English, Park avenue west road, issued invitations to 30 friends for a tea yesterday afternoon at her home, nobody realized that the marriage of the former Miss Marjorie Smith and Leo Mowry would be announced. As one of the guests took her tea napkins she found a tiny pen and ink sketch of a house which revealed the nuptial facts.

Mr. and Mrs. Mowry, who were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brock of Mansfield, were married on Christmas day of 1938 at Greenup, Ky. The couple is at home at 26 Ford avenue.

Both are graduates of the Springfield township high school, and Mrs. Mowry, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Smith, Springfield township, is employed at the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company. Mr. Mowry, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mowry, West Fourth street road, is employed at Humphryes Manufacturing company.

Tea was served from a table laid with a lace cover, pink roses and lighted ivory tapers in crystal holders. The two mothers, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Mowry, poured.

A corsage of roses and sweet peas presented to the bride by the hostess concealed a tiny scroll announcing the hiding place of a gift of linen.

Although no definite plans have yet been made, several of Mrs. Mowry's friends will be giving post-nuptial showers for the bride.

Doris Heston Feted At Party Saturday Evening

Doris Heston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Heston, 88 Beethoven street, who celebrated her 12th birthday yesterday was guest of honor at a dinner party Saturday night given by her mother at the family home. The table was decorated with a birthday cake, and the honoree was presented with a number of gifts

Those present were Wanda and Juanita Weiss, Felicia Burkett, Evelyn and Margaret Yoder, and Marilyn Taylor.

Return To Girl If Possible

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A few months ago, I was introduced to a girl with whom I have fallen in love. I am 23 years old and she a year or two younger. She is very devoted to me, and we were both happy until my family suddenly interfered, and took a dislike to her. They insisted I stop going with her. Do you think it was right for me to give up this girl who loved me, and whom I love, just to please my family?

I've always done, more or less, as they asked me, but at my age I think I ought to be able to decide in matters of love. Don't you agree with me? I'm right at the point of calling her up to make a date to meet me on the sly. Is that a good move, or what can I do? My family really has nothing against the girl, but they have become prejudiced.

DAN.

You haven't told me anything about your home life. Are you dependent on the family for support, or do you have a good position? If you are working, and share the expenses with the others in the home, then, it seems to me, you are old enough to exercise some freedom of choice in regard to your friends.

However, if they support you at home, they have a right to tell you what to do. If there is really nothing against the girl, and you're self-supporting, why not make up with her?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

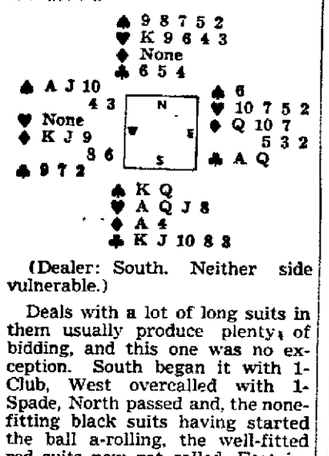
"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP YOUR TEMPER

Maybe your partner was in a position to know more about the opponents' hands than you knew. His own holding may have made it clear to him that they were very likely to make their contract, despite your strong bidding and business double.

Hold your criticism of him for taking out your double until you see how it works out. Maybe he has saved you a lot of points by his action.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Deals with a lot of long suits in them usually produce plenty of bidding, and this one was no exception. South began it with 1-Club, West overcalled with 1-Spade, North passed and, the none-fitting black suits having started the ball a-rolling, the well-fitted red suits now got called. East introduced one of them with 2-Diamonds and South the other with 2-Hearts.

West hopped to 4-Diamonds, North showed his fit with 4-Hearts, East called 5-Diamonds, South 5-Hearts and West 6-Diamonds, which passed around to South, who doubled. North reckoned carefully. His hand was worthless defensively, but splendid in support of hearts. He calculated that East was surely short in spades because he himself had so many and West had bid them. He had so many hearts, he was sure the opponents were short in one hand or the other. Probably one opponent could stop the clubs, with either a ruff or an honor. So he took out the double into 6-Hearts, which East doubled.

South was very miffed when West took his spade A, East ruffed a spade and the club A was cashed for a two-trick set. But when the post-mortem showed that East could have made his diamond small slam, losing only the trump ace, South was appeased.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mary gave me no opportunity of replying to her burlesqued request that I come into the living room and "hold Noel's hand or head" when she should appear attired for the dance which I had planned to have her rehearse for him.

With excellent "timing" she went through the door as she uttered the last word, and I had no recourse but to follow her, vaguely uneasy about the outcome of the experiment.

For I knew now what had been the reason for her hesitancy when I had spoken about substituting her dance for the rehearsal of the lines, the rendition of which we were striving to perfect.

She was afraid that Noel was going to object to certain rather daring lines of her costume.

I was decidedly uncomfortable as I sat down in an easy chair and watched the closed door of Mary's bedroom. And then Noel, who had risen at my entrance, stretched his arms above his head and flexed them. When he lowered them again, he addressed me directly.

"I imagine I'll be in the way while you're going over those lines with Mary. Will it be all right if I go over in your sitting room and have a smoke and look at the papers while your rehearsal is going on?"

Temptation had hold of me by the throat. Here was an easy way out. In another second I would have assented to his proposal, but Mary put her head out of the bedroom door just as I opened my lips to speak, and caroled:

"Oh, Auntie Madge! will you help me with this dance costume? I can't get it to stay hooked, and you know that would be tragic. It's bad enough as it is."

"A dance costume!" he echoed. "What does she need of a dance costume? I thought this was a straight drama."

"It is a straight drama but the role which Mary portrays, as you know, is that of an actress, also a dancer. It will be extremely easy for me at one particular point in the play to interpolate this dance. You know as well as I what a marvelous dancer Mary is. I am counting heavily upon your father's favorable reaction to the dance when we surprise him with it."

But his face did not lighten. If anything, the crease between his eyebrows deepened.

"You might be the ones surprised," he said sententiously. "Is Mary going to rehearse the dance now?"

"Yes," I said, trying to make my voice commonplace. "I thought you'd like to see it!"

He did not answer for a second, but he turned and seated himself again in the chair he had just left.

"Indeed I should like to do just that," he said, but there was an intonation in his voice that I did not like.

Coffee and Cake Best Refreshment

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

JUST ABOUT the best refreshment to serve when guests come is that good old standby, coffee and cake. Cheer in the cup is coffee for the guest—big beakers for the robust, little cups for the dainty. With everything at hand, it's but a matter of minutes to serve the host's toast of piping hot coffee. Along with the coffee come the cakes—a slice of the layer, a cut of the fruited or cup cake. Have you tried the nut loaf or will you have a go at the banana filling? Cake and coffee do it, especially with one of these cakes that will delight your guests.

Brazil nut fudge cake may be rich but it delicious—ideal hospitality fare. It requires one-third cup shortening, one cup sugar, one well-beaten egg, two squares unsweetened chocolate (melted) also one cup ground Brazil nuts one and three-quarters cups cake flour, two teaspoons phosphate baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, three-quarters cup milk and one teaspoon vanilla. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, beating well. Stir in beaten egg. Stir in chocolate. Add flour, sifted with baking powder and salt, alternately with milk. Stir in Brazil nuts and vanilla. Pour batter into two eight-inch greased cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (350F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Frost.

Banana Layer Cake.

Banana layer cake calls for two and one-quarter cups sifted cake flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon each salt and soda, one-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, two eggs, teaspoon vanilla, one cup mashed ripe bananas (two to three) and one-quarter cup sour milk or buttermilk. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Beat shortening until creamy. Add sugar gradually, beating until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition until fluffy. Stir in vanilla. Add flour mixture alternately with combined bananas and milk, small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into two greased nine-inch layer pans and bake in 375 F. oven 25 to 30 minutes. Frost.

Banana butter frosting is made by mixing together one-half cup mashed ripe bananas and one-half teaspoon lemon juice. Then beat one-cup butter until creamy. Add three and one-half cups sifted confectionerss sugar and bananas alternately, a small amount at a time, beating uutil frosting is light and fluffy. It makes frosting for one nine-inch layer cake.

Holiday Date Cakes.

Holiday date cakes taste as good as they look. To make two dozen requires one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons phosphate baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup butter, one cup sugar, three eggs, grated rind one-half orange, one-half package sliced dates, one-half cup fresh orange juice and one-quarter teaspoon soda. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream butter, add sugar slowly, then beaten eggs, orange rind and dates. Mix well. Add soda to the orange juice. Combine the ingredients by adding the flour and orange juice alternately to the first mixture. Bake in cup cake pans for 15 to 20 minutes at 375 F. Serve plain or with orange frosting.

For an emergency hospitality cake add one cup of water to the contents of one package of prepared gingerbread mix, stir and pour into baking tin. Bake in moderate oven for 30 to 35 minutes. When cool top with orange marshmallow fluff. Make this by stirring one-half pound marshmallows, cut into eighths, with two cups of cut orange segments and one-half cup chopped nutmeats, and combining with one cup whipping cream, whipped.

Here is a test for beating fudge. As soon as the fudge is cooked, set aside on a flat surface until you can easily rest your hand on the bottom of the pan. The fudge is then ready to beat. Letting it stand this way helps keep it from becoming grainy—if it's not overcooked. The fudge test for sufficient cooking is when a small portion poured into a cup of cold water can be taken up in the fingers

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The shop is frightfully busy with Palm Beach and cruise clothes. Our customers are leaving in droves, bound for sunny spots.

Madame is actually going to take a holiday. She and Howard are taking a de luxe cruise around South America. Consuelo has written to friends and relatives in Buenos Aires and in Rio, so there will be a royal welcome awaiting the travelers when they arrive.

It won't be long now before our group will go its various ways. Guido and his wife are going to Washington before they go south. Pam and her husband and my parents leave for the coast any day now. Dad is just waiting to sign some contracts. That swell young brother of Phylys is leaving for England. But he says that he is coming over this summer to spend his vacation here and to see the two fairs.

Sailing With Him.

Don and Phylys are sailing with him. Don has one more picture to make in England under an old contract. His latest American film was such a success that the studio wants to cash in on it. Don has always been very popular in England, and since he married a famous English society girl he is more popular than ever.

Soon I'll be on my way, too, and only Consuelo will be left. Her mother is remaining on with her and, of course, will stay at the apartment. Bill will be coming to Florida quite often this winter. He made such a success of the remodeling of the house Consuelo purchased, and also of the house that he has built for those bankers, that he has two new commissions, important ones, too.

Fortunately, each house is to be in an entirely different style, so there won't be any jealousy. The owners are south and want to supervise the building. One house is to be in old Spanish style, while the other commission is for an ultra-modern dwelling, built almost entirely out of glass. Bill is doing quite well on both jobs and his plans have been approved with but few changes.

He is doing so well and becoming so well known that he is thinking of going into business for himself. I think it would be a good idea, but he has so much responsibility that it wouldn't be wise to break away from a regular job unless he has several good commissions to start with.

Talking of Florida, here's a swell beach costume. The white jersey cape and hood add charm to the bathing suit which is of purple and white striped jersey, a two-piece model. The suit is somewhat on the order of the first form-fitting suits that used to be so popular. The hood can be worn with or without the cape.

Swell beach costume.

Coffee for Sauce

Coffee used as the liquid for hard sauce gives a new flavor which blends deliciously with baked or steamed fruit puddings. Heat the coffee first to make it mix more quickly with the sugar. This also will do away with the raw taste sometimes noticed in hard sauces

Nice Frozen Salad.

Grapefruit-tangerine mold is another nice frozen salad. The recipe requires one envelope plain gelatin, one-quarter cold water, one cup boiling water, one-quarter cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt, teaspoon lemon juice, one-half cup tangerine segments and juice, and one cup grapefruit segments cut in small pieces. Soften gelatin in cold water, add boiling water and stir until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Add sugar, tangerine segments and juice, salt and lemon juice. Cool and when mixture begins to thicken fold in grapefruit. Turn into individual molds. Chill. Unmold on lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise.

Creamy fruit dressing, a salad dressing that is tangy and different, requires two-thirds cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, two beaten eggs, two tablespoons oil, juice each of a lemon and orange, one cup each pineapple juice and whipped cream. Blend sugar and flour in double boiler. Add eggs, oil and fruit juice, then cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool and fold in one cup whipped cream.

When washing cut or etched glassware, use warm, soapy water and then rinse the dishes in quantities of water of the same temperature. Hot water is likely to crack the glass. To avoid chipping, set the articles on a towel in dish pan or on the draining board.

Do
FALSE TEETH

FASTEETH, an improved powder to be sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. Do not slide, slip or rock. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. FASTEETH is alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, January 17.

A FAIRLY active and progressive day is the augury based on the lunar transits. There are indications of heightened energies and initiative, which are quite likely to arrest the attention of employers, superiors or others ready and willing to lend support for promotion of sound enterprises. However, there may be a minor change or disturbance and it would be well to keep a sharp lookout for treacherous, crafty or sinister schemes or designing persons.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very enterprising and productive year, with new matters under high initiative and arresting the interest of superiors, employers or others who may be found ready to assist in the promotion of meritorious propositions. However, there are hints of double dealing or other fraudulent or malific contacts, and there may be an unwelcome upset of plans or unlooked for disturbance. Keep a vigilant eye on all pitfalls.

A child born on this day will be enterprising, creative and practical and its sound talents may enlist the support of those in power, who may assist to success and position in life, possibly in politics or diplomacy.

Try New Tricks For Beauty

MME. QUI VIVE

One of the greatest handicaps in the beauty race is the fixed idea. Beauty shop operators have to contend with it all the time. They suggest a different arrangement of the hair to an old diehard. She will not consider it, though she may confess that she's sick of the sight of her old mop. 'A darker rouges, madame, would be more becoming." Huh! Madame has used carmine since the dark ages, and that's what she will continue to use.

There is the woman who has worn the same style of shoes for years. The clerk, eager to have a satisfied patron, endeavors to show her a more favorable last, one that will provide greater ease when walking. He takes his life in his hands. She is ready for battle; he sees the cold glint in her eye, gives her what she has asked for.

To what beauty parlor do you belong, my paper friend? Are you a liberal, taking a broad-minded view of each new fashion as it appears to excite the phrail sex? Or are you a conservative, tagging along one or two seasons late? Perhaps you are sitting on the fence, never able to decide which way to jump. It's no fun traveling in slow moving traffic. Jump on the beauty cart and get going. It is the only way to stay young and interesting.

Experiment. Be on the watch for new ideas, new cosmetics. A change in the shade of powder, a lighter rouge or a darker one may make better looking that woman in the mirror that you see several times a day. All complexions undergo changes. Make-up that was flattering last year may not do at all this season. And dress colors change. They are an influence in successful portrait painting.

It sometimes happens that a woman who has been using make-up looks prettier when she doesn't apply it, just goes natural with a fluff of powder and the tiniest touch of lipstick. Depends upon the coloring, of course, and the texture of the skin.

Another woman may be improved by resorting to hair dye. Coloring the glorious top has become a fine art. Many a head is ducked in the dye pot just so often and nobody is the wiser. It's silly to say that white hair is becoming to all women; it isn't, even if the complexion shows a bit of wear and tear.

Rice or macaroni will not boil over onto the stove if the kettle in which they are boiled is greased three or four inches from the top.

Tygers Tackle Unbeaten New Philly Team Friday

MANSFIELD high school cagers face another pretty tough job Friday night when they attempt to extend their winning streak to four games.

Friday's assignment will take them to New Philadelphia, where basketball fever has been aroused to the highest point in years by the Quakers' sensational play.

Already rated as one of the teams which is certain to return to the state finals in Columbus next spring, New Philadelphia is undefeated. It boasts of nine straight victories, the longest string held by any Class A team in the state.

Few Lineup Changes.

The New Philly team is virtually the same which reached the championship finals at Columbus last year. The Quakers were beaten by Newark by a one-point margin in the titular game.

As the Tygers have found it difficult to operate as well on foreign courts as their own, Coach Russ Murphy has reasons to fear the invasion. However, if the Tygers continue to play the same brand of ball they displayed in their last two games, Murphy figures his team will make it uncomfortable for the Quakers.

Not scheduled since last Tuesday when they walloped Ashland, the Tygers have been pointing for New Philadelphia since then. Murphy expects to have the Tygers in the best shape of the season for the New Philadelphia tussle.

Although the Tygers will be on the road, there will be no dearth of high-class basketball attractions in this vicinity this weekend.

The Richland county league program is particularly outstanding Friday night. The headline game will bring the up-and-coming Ontario club to Madison. The Rams have won six straight county league games, but may find a tartar in the Warriors, who have made rapid strides since early games. Ontario's rally has pulled it from the cellar to a tie for third place.

Butler performs at Lexington and Bellville is scheduled to invade Lucas for the other county game Friday. The site of the Bellville-Lucas game is indefinite as it is not certain whether the new Lucas gymnasium will be completed by then.

If the floor is not ready, the game, undoubtedly, will be staged at Bellville.

Butler, which has dropped two games in a row after winning seven straight, and Lucas play twice this week, meeting Tuesday night at Butler. Another county league tussle will take Lexington to Union Saturday night.

Plymouth Seeks Ninth.

Twin-Valley league games will send Plymouth's Tygers to North Fairfield and Adario to Shiloh. Crestline of the Little Big Four league goes to Marion St. Mary's Friday night and to Mt. Gilead for a return game Saturday. The Onondagas defeated Mt. Gilead on the home court last week.

In the N. C. O. conference Friday, Ashland plays at Bucyrus. Galion at Shelby and Marion at Mt. Vernon. Shelby performs at Norwalk and Marion entertains Fostoria in non-league Saturday night tilts.

Records of Richland county high school teams follow:

	W.	L.	Tp.	Op.
Plymouth	8	1	272	185
Madison	8	2	260	214

Plymouth Stopped At Attica

Tigers Handed First Defeat by 35 to 26 Count.

THE fast-stepping Plymouth high school cagers suffered their initial defeat of the season Saturday night when they bowed to Attica, 35 to 26, on the Attica hardwood.

The Twin-Valley league quintet had won eight straight games up to last week-end.

Coach Don Dunham's cagers were off on their shooting, with Leroy Ellison, Plymouth's high-scoring center, being held to a pair of baskets.

Plymouth trailed at the end of the first period, 9 to 8, but came back before the intermission to take a 19 to 16 lead. Attica regained the advantage in the third period and held it until the finish.

Keller and Neikirk caused the Tigers considerable trouble, scoring 17 and 13 points, respectively. Ellison was high for the losers with nine points.

The Attica reserves won over the Plymouth seconds, 18 to 5, in the preliminary game.

St. John Evangelical	0	4	.000

The cage clubs of St. Paul's Lutheran and South Main Evangelical churches turned in victories in the Class C church league at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday to remain in a tie for first place.

Led by Hoff, who scored 10 points, St. Paul's edged St. John, 21 to 18, with a second half rally, while South Main defeated the Boy Rangers, 7 to 6, in a low scoring game.

First M. E. took over Park Avenue Baptist, 32 to 8, to gain third place. The Morehead brothers divided 20 of the 32 points tallied by the Methodists. First Presbyterian won its first game at the expense of Episcopal, 8 to 5.

Grimes Shines for Minerva, But Inmates Win.

Oscar Grimes, who is slated to hold down second base for the Cleveland Indians next season, also tosses a mean basketball.

Young Grimes showed plenty of skill on the hardwood at the reformatory Saturday as he performed with the Minerva, O., Eagles against the inmates, and it was no fault of his that Coach George Allarding's boys won.

The inmates took the measure of the visitors by a 36 to 34 count, with Grimes contributing 12 points to his team's total. Kenny Grimes, who also played some professional baseball with the Toledo Mud Hens and other teams, also stood out for the Minerva club.

The inmates won the ball game on the lead obtained in the first half. They gained a 9 to 7 lead in the first period, held an 18 to 11 advantage at the half and a 24 to 20 lead going into the fourth frame.

Calhoun again paced the reformatory cagemen with 14 points.

Ashland Adds To Win Streak

Richcreek Leads Eagles to Eighth Straight Victory.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Paced by the sparkling, high scoring tactics of Jim Richcreek, a guard who has hooped 50 points in the last two games, Ashland college today continued to cut a devastating, unbeaten swath through Ohio collegiate basketball territory.

The Eagles, who have beaten eight opponents, were given a bad scare by Ohio Northern Saturday night but after trailing 20 to 16 at the half, rebounded in the final two quarters to win, 59 to 53. Richcreek made 23 points.

Despite their supremacy in statewide circles, the Eagles were forced to share Ohio conference honors with Wooster, Case, and Capital. Each of the four quints in conference combat, have won four and lost none.

Pressing Ashland for the state crown were Akron, with seven consecutive wins, Case with six straight and no losses, and Capital with five on the right side of the ledger and no defeats.

Averages of the four unbeaten quintets show Ashland with 406 points to 314 for the opponents, leaving an offensive average per game of 50 against a defensive average of 39.

Massillon Sets Up New Job for Brown

MASSILLON — (AP) — Paul E. Brown, former Miami university athletic star who has coached football and basketball seven years at Washington High school here, has accepted a three-year contract as director of physical education in Massillon Public schools.

The school board offered him the contract after receiving word Brown had a chance to coach at an Ohio college. He will receive $4,000 the first year, $4,200 the second and $4,500 the third. Brown is said to be receiving $3,600.

Lutheran, Christian Vie in Main Game

Heading the Class B Church league cage schedule Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. will be a tussle between the First Christian and First Lutheran quintets.

The Christians are tied for secondn place with Park Avenue Baptist, while the Lutherans trail by a half game. The Lutherans suffered thir first defeat last week when they bowed to St. John Evangelical, the only unbeaten club in the circuit.

St. Johns meets the victoryless South Main club in the second game at 7:45. Central M. E. and Mayflower tangle in the opening tilt at 6:45. First M. E. and Baptist vie in the last at 8:45.

GAME POSTPONED

Dempsey Protege Laces Farr

Teaching of the old Manassa Mauler shows in the face of Red Burman, protege of Jack Dempsey, as he tears into crouching Tommy Farr during their 10-round bout in New York. Burman won on decision as Tommy celebrated his fifth consecutive defeat since he first made his fistic debut in this country.

Seeks Foe for New Champion

Nolan Notified Weidner Not Ready for Match.

Promoter Tim Nolan's attempts to sign Billy Weidner, late champion of the light-heavyweights, for Champion Mephisto in the headline match for next Friday's Quality club grapple show at the Armory were discontinued today.

Nolan was informed that Weidner would not be able to return to the mat for several weeks due to a leg injury sustained in the match in Columbus in which he lost his title to Mephisto last week.

Mephisto will appear on the card, Nolan said, despite the fact that Weidner has been forced to refuse the match. His opponent has not been selected.

Simpson Club Triumphs at Perrysville

Scores 31 to 17 Victory; Win Prelim Game, Too.

Led by Joe Romano and Albert Hager, the Simpson Junior high school courtmen trimmed Perrysville, 31 to 17, on the Perrysville hardwood Saturday.

The Bulldogs jumped into a 10 to 4 lead in the opening stanza and the advantage was never threatened. At the half, the Bob DeHaven-coached quintet led by a 15 to 8 count.

The Simpsonites put the game on ice in the third quarter when they scored 13 points while limiting their hosts to a free throw.

Romano paced the Simpson club with 11 points, while Hager was next high with 10. Atkinson and Herman starred for Perrysville.

In the preliminary game, the Simpson 7th and 8th grade club held the Perrysville 7th and 8th graders to a free throw to win, 16 to 1. Hammer and Robertson led the Bulldogs.

200-Yard Relay Team Again Turns in Victory As Mansfield High Tankmen Lose to Sandusky

By CHARLES MARTIN.

THE tankmen of Mansfield high dropped their second dual meet of the season in the home pool Saturday but the performance of the crack 200-yard relay team helped somewhat to ease the sting of the defeat.

It was the fourth straight victory for the relay squad, and the style in which it functioned was pleasing to Coach Harold Burns, who watched his team bow to a powerful Sandusky club, 42 to 24.

Mansfield copped only two firsts in the meet, the relay team snagging one and Dave Walker accounting for the other in the 50-yard free style event.

Walker, Charles Betz, Bill Smart and Jim McCarthy made up the relay foursome, and it splashed to victory in one minute and 53.8 seconds, outclassing the invaders by a comfortable margin.

The Mansfielders finished second in three events and third in three others to pile up their points.

Sandusky, one of the ranking powers in the state, marched off with six firsts, three seconds, and a like number of third places.

Elmlinger won the 100-yard breast stroke in one minute and 11.4 seconds, with Burton Preston of Mansfield second and MacGregor of Sandusky third. Wolfe of Sandusky collected the No. 1 spot in the 220-yard free style, while Morton of Sandusky and Dick Sowash of Mansfield finished in that order.

The other events won by Sandusky were the 110-yard back stroke, with Harrison showing the way, the 100-yard free style, annexed by Gundlatch, the diving meet, in which Westerhold and Gillingham finished one-two, and the 150-yard medley relay.

Lydon Beam, jr. gave Mansfield a second in the 100-yard back stroke, and Betz added a second in the 100-yard free stlye melee, with Phil taking third in the diving event.

Crestline Pin Star High at Meder Alleys

Charles Gerberich Rolls 665 in Special Match.

THE individual scoring pace at the Meder alleys over the week-end was set by Charles Gerberich of the Crestline Eagles No. 1 team, who cracked the uprights for a nifty 665 total.

Rolling scores of 221, 220 and 224, Gerberich led his six-man team to a 3327 to 2197 victory over the lodge's No. 2 team in a special match. Arlie Hipp contributed a 649 to the No. 1 team's total.

Hipp Scores 651.

The best individual series shot by a Mansfielder on the Meder lanes was a 651 by Farrell Hipp, who led the Moose No. 1 team to the high five-man team total of 2860. Due to a big handicap, Hipp's total gave the lodgemen only one win over Barberton in a Moose Traveling league match.

Harold Geiger walloped the sticks for a 643 count, but his Satterlee Restaurant team bowed to the Castamba Theaters of Shelby, 2759 to 2698, in a special match. Clabaugh paced the Shelby team with a 612.

Mrs. Sophia Meder came through with an even 600 as she led the Meder Recreation feminine quintet to a 2491 to 2239 victory over the Office Cafe in a special match.

The Lumbermens Insurance team bowed to Ringer's Cafe of Mt. Vernon, 2839 to 2798, in a special match at Mt. Vernon Saturday. Lamson rolled a 644 for the Mt. Vernonites, while Phillipon shot a 616 for the Mansfield team.

Moose Drop Pair.

Despite a 608 by Eddie Meder, the Moose No. 2 dropped two games to Wooster on the Wooster alleys. Mary McMullen shot a 558 to lead a Mansfield feminine team to a 2227 to 2012 victory over the Miller Products at Shelby. The Mansfield Printers, paced by Flood's 600, defeated the John O'Dea keglers of Cleveland, 2740 to 2483, in a special match on Skang Mercurio's Cleveland alleys.

Sohioans Win, Cuemen Lose

Rex Billiards Suffer First Defeat of Season.

Scoring 24 points, Bob Bogantz, former Ontario high star, led the Ontario Sohians to a 55 to 44 victory over the Mahon Pine Ridge cagers of Mt. Vernon at Ontario Saturday night.

The Sohians were scheduled to meet the Shellmar Products of Mt. Vernon, but they were forced to cancel because of a schedule error.

In the other game, the Ontario Ex-Hys handed the Rex Billiards their first defeat of the season by an 18 to 13 count. The Billiards trailed all the way after the opening period. Bookwalter was high for the Ex-Hys with 11 points, while Richards tallied nine for the losers.

Tangle At High School

Elks, Westies to Meet in 2nd Game in City League Court Docket.

A RECORD breaking 12-game winning streak in City Class A basketball league competition will be at stake on the Mansfield Senior high gymnasium at 7:30 p. m. today.

Open Second Round.

That record belongs to the crack Yuncker Sports, who clash with Earl Herrick's Hi-Speeds in the initial contest on the circuit's weekly program. Tonight's games mark the opening of the second round championship race.

The other portion of the cage menu for City league followers brings together the Elks Lodge quintet and the Westinghouse Electric combine.

Manager Jimmy Breres' sharpshooting outfit will be at full-strength for the all-important tussle, but whether it can continue on its spectacular victory march is a question.

In the Hi-Speeds, the Yuncker machine, which copped the opening round title, faces a club that has yet to hit its stride. Herrick's aggregation, at the beginning of the season, looked strong, but only once has he been able to throw his full strength into the lineup—and that time the team won with ease.

Starting for the Hi-Speeds tonight are Delnore Goldsmith and Bob Fisher at the forwards, George Nana at center, and Clarence Herrick and Gene Brandon at the guard posts. Against this lineup Breres will toss Freddie Lewis and Al Stickler, forwards, John Reese, center, and Harold Hayfer and LaVerne Gray, guards.

The Westinghouse-Elks melee should provide its share of thrills. Both clubs dropped two games in the op

TRADERS SEEK CLUE TO NEXT MARKET MOVE

Profit Taking Handicaps Stock Issues Angling for Further Recovery.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks angled for further recovery in today's market but many issues, handicapped by profit taking, failed to connect.

Dealings, quiet at the opening, turned exceptionally sluggish.

Traders seemingly found nothing particularly stimulating in business news, foreign developments or Washington happenings and most inclined to remain in neutral territory while awaiting a clue as to the next market move.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were posted for Bethlehem Steel, Continental Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Air Reduction, Electric Power & Light, Johns-Manville and Philip Morris.

In arrears as much were U. S. Steel, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Anaconda, duPont, Westinghouse, N. Y. Central, Great Northern and U. S. Rubber.

Bonds were selectively higher and commodities a trifle uneven.

Market analysts scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said "improvement in steel inquiries is slow to be translated into order."

ASK $26,000 IN 3-CAR COLLISION

Geauga County Couple Bring Action Against Two Drivers in Court Here.

A three-car automobile crash on Lexington avenue last Nov. 23 which seriously injured two persons was the basis for two damage suits for a total of $26,000 which were filed today in common pleas court.

The separate actions for $10,000 and $16,000 were brought by B. W. Eddy and his wife, Grace M. Eddy, both of Chesterland, Geauga county, who were in General hospital for nearly a month after the accident.

In their suits against Harold Geitgey, a minor, of Elyria, and Frank Kuentz, Cleveland, drivers of the other cars involved in the crash, Mr. and Mrs. Eddy contend that both drivers were operating their cars at excessive speeds and in a careless manner.

The petitions state that the youth's car collided with the one occupied by Eddy, throwing Eddy's car into the path of another driven by Kuentz.

Eddy suffered a brain concussion and other head and shoulder injuries, while his wife contends that her face was permanently disfigured as a result of her injuries.

NAME SPEAKERS FOR INSTITUTE

NEW WASHINGTON — Mrs. Grace Parlette Sifritt of Marion and Wheeler J. Welday of Smithfield have been obtained as speakers for the New Washington Community institute to be held on Feb. 16 to 17 in the high school auditorium. An additional speaker from the World's Poultry Congress will also be present at the Thursday evening session.

County Agent Russell Miller of Bucyrus met with the Institute committee at the school house recently to make plans. The following committees were appointed:

Entertainment, J. S. Barrington and Miss Frances Yanka: soliciting, Mrs. E. R. Shoup, Weldon Aichholz and E. J. Bishop; posters J. C. Johnson; ladies exhibits, Mrs. E. D. Fike, Miss Frances Yanka, Mrs. E. R. Shoup and Mrs. Roma Karl; men's exhibits, Weldon Aichholz.

JOB ABOLISHED

GALION—At the close of business Friday night at the state liquor store here, the position of clerk was abolished, in line with the economy move which lopped off 265 state liquor store employes.

This removed S. P. Durnwald of Galion, leaving two employes at the local store. Durnwald was appointed Sept. 19, 1938.

TRAFFIC TAKES FIRST '39 LIFE

were John J. Fackler, 23, of Plymouth, and F. E. Vanderahe, 30, of 126 Sturges avenue. Fackler suffered lacerations about the face early Sunday morning at Springmill and Harker streets when his car collided with one driven by Howard Nichols. Nichols told police that his machine had stalled at the traffic light stop and that the lights of his car were out when Fackler ran into him.

Vanderahe received scalp lacerations and bruises when the car in which he was riding and which was driven by Albert Baird, 487 Parkview, and one driven by Elwood Wiley of Polk, sideswiped each other on U. S. 42, at the west end of the new cut-off, east of Mansfield. The accident occurred at 1:45 a. m. Sunday.

Laura Snyder, 58, also of Polk, who was riding with Wiley, received leg injuries and a number of her front teeth were knocked out. Neither Baird or Wiley were injured.

Although no one was injured when two automobiles came together on the Shelby road, near Westbrook Country club at 12:30 a. m. Sunday, one of the cars rolled down the embankment and was damaged.

Roy Consenmoyer, 178 West Park drive, his wife and 16-month old daughter, Carol Jane, were in the auto that turned over, while occupants of the other machine were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Halley, 214 Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Evelyn Tennant of Galion, suffered face lacerations caused by the shattering of her eye glasses when the car driven by her husband, Duane Tennant, collided with another at the intersection of U. S. 30S and the Ontario-Springmill road Saturday night.

The second car was driven by John Brumm, R. D. 2, Mansfield, who pulled out onto the main highway from the side road, State Patrolman C. B. Tieben reported.

CONVENTION SET

Ohio Commercial Travelers to Meet in City Jan. 8-10.

Dates of the Grand Council meeting of the United Commercial Travelers, to be held this year in Mansfield, were announced at the annual meeting of the Mansfield chapter Friday night at Moose hall.

The meeting will be held June 8, 9 and 10, with the Southern hotel as convention headquarters.

Ed. A. Robbins, grand junior counsellor of Chillicothe, and Frank Wolff, past supreme counsellor, and Lawrence Speed, past counsellor, both of the Tiffin chapter, were guest speakers at the annual meeting. L. D. Bowers acted as master of ceremonies.

JEWELL BARES PAROLE RACKET

Tells Ohioans Prison Releases Can't Be 'Bought.'

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Judge Harrison W. Jewell, chairman of the state parole board, in a radio talk here said that "shady lawyers and politicians thrive on a racket of duping guillible friends and relatives" of prisoners that they can obtain paroles for inmates in return for a "certain consideration."

Judge Jewell, former Delaware county common pleas judge, said that by "neither love nor money" could unscrupulous operators obtain paroles for prisoners, but that they had profited by persuading interested parties that this was possible.

SEES 'FROZEN' GAS SAFETY AID

Bulgarian War Ace Says It Would Halt Plant Explosions.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Use of "frozen" gasoline to reduce fire hazards in aircraft is proposed by Assen Jordanoff, 42-year-old Bulgarian war ace who once gave ground lessons in aviation to Thomas A. Edison.

Jordanoff said the fuel—so cold it took a blowtorch 14 seconds to ignite it during a demonstration yesterday at Roosevelt field—also would eliminate explosions in the crash of transport plans.

The gasoline can flow into heating apparatus which prepares it for motor consumption.

SEE GRID FILMS

Junior Association Members to be Shown Toledo Games Wednesday.

Motion pictures of the Toledo University football games will be shown after the regular meeting of the Junior Association of Commerce at its assembly room at 8 p. m. Wednesday, Francis O'Brien, president of the association, announced today.

The pictures will be shown by Norman Cohen, Toledo attorney, who is official football photographer of the school. Cohen, who owns an option of the Mansfield franchise of the Ohio State baseball league, will show films he took at the Toledo Mud Hens' training camp in Harlingen, Tex., last spring.

JAILED, TRIES SUICIDE

WAUSEON, O. —(INS)— Mike Spargowski, 46, a paroled convict, was in serious condition in Memorial hospital today after attempting suicide in the Fulton county jail by slashing his throat with a razor blade.

FINDS HIGHWAY FILES BURNED

State Director Says Sabotage of Personnel Records Found in 10 Division Offices.

Engineers who lost their jobs included C. C. Wolford, Morrow county; Herbert R. Krebs, Marion county; Donald Elson, Union county; Clyde E. Hayger, Madison and Fayette counties, and Henry McGrady, Pickaway county.

Beightler appointed A. Edwin Stevenson, Columbus, resident engineer of Franklin, Pickway and another county to be designated. Resident engineers receive an average of $2,600 a year. Forty highway workers in Division No. 6 at Delaware were added to the list of economy program casualties today.

Boyd Wierman, Richland county engineer, said he had received no notice today of changes in his department.

A former Mansfield newspaper man, Herbert C. Ditwiler, was one of 20 state conservation department employes who fell under the new administration's economy ax today. Ditwiler was a land agent in the conservation division.

An annual saving of $51,160 was promised by John T. Brown, state agriculture director, as the result of dismissal of 22 employes in his department. The conservation department is one of the department of agriculture divisions.

John Daley, Mansfield youth, was one of the 52 employes dismissed Saturday in the state bureau of motor vehicles, Beightler revealed today. Daley received $85 a month.

Tickets on Sale For Birthday Ball Saturday Evening

Tickets for the President's birthday ball, which will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom next Saturday night, are on sale throughout the city, and may be purchased from members of the ticket committee or from a number of business places.

The event will be the sixth annual one which has been given to raise funds for the fight against infantile paralysis. Fifty per cent of the net proceeds will go to the president's national committee for the Warm Springs Foundation, and the balance will remain in Mansfield in charge of a local committee.

Bob Richards' orchestra will provide music for the dancing.

Downtown and neighborhood business places handling tickets for the ball are Bates, the Book Shop, Mansfield-Leland hotel office, Ohio Fuel Gas company office, Tawse's pharmacy, Shumaker's drug store, Schmutzler's cafe, Satterlee's Restaurant, Miller's cafe, Woodard's confectionary store, Shaw's Community drug store, and East Side night club.

Tickets are also being sold at Weber's store in Plymouth, according to Mrs. Louise Reese, chairman of the ticket committee.

LEWIS A. BUDD, ILL YEAR, DIES

New York Native Stricken at 62 In Mt. Gilead Saturday.

MT. GILEAD — Lewis Arthur Budd, 62, a native of New York state, died at his home on Cherry street Saturday night following a year's illness with heart trouble.

Born Jan. 18, 1876, in Waverly, N. Y., he had lived in Mt. Gilead for the past 11 years. He was a member of the Trinity Methodist church.

Surviving are his wife, Eldora; two sons, Alvin L. of Marion and Cecil A. of Piqua, and two daughters, Mrs. Myrna Cuthbert of Akron and Mrs. Helen Taylor of Edison.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Tuesday at the Craven funeral home. The body will then be taken to East Akron cemetery, where services will be held at 2 p. m. with Rev. Heininger of Marion officiating. Burial will be in Akron.

MILLERSBURG — Dr. N. P. Stauffer, Killbuck physician, was elected chairman and L. J. Bahler of Walnutcreek, vice chairman, at a recent reorganization meeting of the Holmes county board of health. Dr. J. C. Elder of Millersburg was re-employed as county commissioner for the next two years.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—What's Your Hurry?

By Harold Gray

LOOK OUT, SANDY! JUMP!
GEE! WHAT WAS THAT? DOG OR SOMETHIN' - JUST TICKED TH' LEFT FRONT FENDER-
HUM! COULD HAVE WRECKED US IF WE'D HIT WHATEVER IT WAS SQUARE-PEOPLE ARE WORSEN DOGS-
YEAH! FOOLS OUGHTA STAY OFF TH' ROADS AT NIGHT, WALKIN' ALONG WITH NO LIGHTS--- BOY- WE'VE SURE BEEN MAKIN' GOOD TIME-
YOU SAID IT- WE DID THAT LAST TEN MILES IN EIGHT MINUTES-
A HUDDLED, STRAWBERY SILENT LITTLE BUNDLE, TORSED INTO THE WEEDS---SYMBOLIC A DOG BENDS OVER IT, SNIFFS, WHIMPERS SOFTLY---"THEN---

PAM—No Exceptions!

By A. W. Brewerton

PAIGE, ABOUT TO PHONE THE F.B.I., FINDS TWO FEDERAL MEN AT HIS DOOR! —THEIR EXPLANATION AMAZES HIM!
AND NO ONE HAS LEFT THE APARTMENT FROM EITHER EXIT IN THE LAST HOUR, MR. PAIGE?
THAT'S CORRECT! I HAD A SERVANT STATIONED AT EACH - ON ACCOUNT OF THE SECRET MILITARY CONFERENCE WHICH TOOK PLACE HERE EARLIER TODAY
PAIGE'S HUGE APARTMENT IS A PENTHOUSE AFFAIR, ATOP A HIGH APARTMENT BUILDING, IN THE CITY'S SWANKIEST SECTION!
NO ONE COULD GET OFF THIS ROOF EXCEPT BY ONE OF THE TWO EXITS! THE PAPERS WERE STOLEN IN THE LAST HOUR - THEREFORE, THEY ARE STILL IN THIS HOUSE!
THAT'S FINE! I'LL HAVE A DOZEN MEN HERE IN NO TIME

SAY, FAN, WHY DON'T RUDY GIVE ME A JOB AS PUBLICITY MAN HERE. I'D HAVE 'EM LINED UP BEFORE THE DESK DOWNSTAIRS LIKE YOU WERE GIVING SOMETHING AWAY. YOU SPEAK TO RUDY ABOUT IT
RUDY RUNS THIS BUSINESS AND I DON'T SUGGEST ANYTHING TO HIM
I REALLY COULD DO A NEAT JOB FOR HIM HERE - I'VE GOT AN IDEA RIGHT NOW THAT'D PUT THIS PLACE ON THE MAP LIKE LAKE SUPERIOR
I'LL TELL YOU WHAT TO DO - GIVE THAT IDEA TO SOMEBODY ELSE AND MAKE RUDY MAD
DON'T FORGET I'VE KNOWN YOU EVER SINCE YOU WERE BORN AND IF YOU'VE GOT AN IDEA OTHER THAN 'SLEEP' AND 'EAT' OR 'ADMIRE YOURSELF' YOU'VE GUARDED IT CAREFULLY!

TAILSPIN TOMMY—Bilgewater Bill Confesses!

By Hal Forrest

IN THE PIRATE STRONGHOLD, MEMBERS OF THE CUT-THROAT GANG HAVE HEARD THE FIRING ON THE BEACH ABOVE THE SHRIEKING OF THE STORM..THEY DO NOT KNOW THAT THE TWO BUCCANEERS, SENT OUT TO AID THEIR FELLOW HENCHMAN LAND HIS PLANE, ARE WAGING A BATTLE AGAINST TOMMY'S FRIENDS, AND THEY ALSO DO NOT KNOW THAT TOMMY, HIMSELF, IS ATTACKING THE TWO PIRATES FROM THE REAR. BUT PEE-WEE DECIDES TO INVESTIGATE . .
COME ON! RED EYE AN' DOPEY MUST BE HAVIN' TROUBLE DOWN AT TH' BEACH!
OKAY, PEE-WEE! BUT WE BEST TIE UP THIS DIZZY DAME, FIRST!
AND AS THE DOOR CLOSES BEHIND THE PIRATES..
OOH! W-WHO ARE YOU?
HIST, MA'AM! I'M BILGEWATER BILL, AN HONEST SEA-FARIN' MAN..
I, TOO, WAS A PIRATE ONCE, MA'AM..BUT NOW I HAVE SEEN TH' ERROR O' MY WAYS AN' I HAVE REFORMED, S' HELP ME.

CITY PREPARES FOR '39 STREET REPAIR PLANS

Calls for Bids on Maintenance Materials; Sewer Program to Be Continued.

The purchase of materials for street maintenance during 1939, along with a quantity of sewer pipe—a matter which faces city officials at the start of each year—will be considered within the next two weeks by the city board of control.

Service-safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today that sealed bids on a variety of street materials, including sewer pipe, will be received at his office in the city building until noon Wednesday, Feb. 1.

While the purchase of materials for street repairs and improvement supplies are more or less of a routine affair, the sewer pipe is for the continuation of an intensified sewer program which was launched in 1938 and which the administration hopes to carry on through 1939 with the assistance of WPA.

Variety of Material.

Street materials to be purchased include: 25 cars of cinders, 10 cars of cement, 20 cars of concrete sand, 10 cars of mason sand, five cars of granulated slag, 50 cars of grade "A" limestone, 50 cars of grade "A" gravel, 40,000 shale paving brick, 50 tons of calcium chloride, 300 tons of refuse salt, 500 gallons of asphalt cutback, seven cars of road oil, 2,000 cubic yards of bank run gravel, 100 tons of asphalt filler.

Bids also are sought on 400 gallons of white traffic paint, 400 gallons of orange traffic paint, 100 cubic yards of pre-mixed concrete, 2,000 cubic yards of crushed and graded slag, 200 tons of Westphalt, 2,000 tons of T-50 sheet asphalt, and 10 cars of vitrified sewer pipe.

Proposals for concrete sand, grade "A" limestone, and grade "A" gravel must state if unloading and storage facilities will be provided, Nist said.

Nist said that all materials must meet the standard specifications on file in the office of the city engineer and also specifications submitted by the contractor with his bid.

He added that each proposal must state the trade name of the product, unit price, carload price and any other information pertinent to the grade and kind of material to be furnished, and that all bids must be accompanied by a certified check on an Ohio bank.

These Stage And Movie Folk Sure Are a Fickle Lot

NEW YORK—(AP)—Vere Zorina, dancing star of the Broadway musical, "I Married an Angel," is Mrs. George Balanchine now—and movie star Douglas Fairbanks, jr., has his ring back.

The statuesque dancer disclosed last night that she and Blanchine, famous Russian ballet director, were secretly married on Staten Island last Christmas eve.

The news—not so much of a surprise to her intimates—created a mild sensation in Broadway theatrical circles, where it was expected she might wed Fairbanks.

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Movita, the glamorous Mexican screen star, corrected a general misunderstanding today—she is not, as yet, the wife of Jack (The Irish Thrush) Doyle.

Moreover, she said, she was chaperoned by her married sister at the time she and Doyle were found in the same hotel at Ensenada, Mexico, two weeks after Doyle had been deported from the United States and was supposed to be on his way to Italy.

"He just wanted to kiss me goodbye again," she said.

FIGHTS DEATH

Crawford Resident's Skull Fractured In Fall At Home.

GALION—Little hope was held for the recovery of Ehrman Bonin of Renschville, near here, who is in Good Samaritan hospital with a fractured skull and other injuries which he sustained in a fall off the back steps of his home yesterday afternoon.

He had been in ill health for some time and physicians believed that he had suffered a heart attack, which caused him to fall from the steps. He had not regained consciousness today and hospital attendants said his condition at noon was "unchanged."

FRANCO'S ARMY SEIZES CERVERA

lack exact information about its precise location and strength.

The Barcelona administration indicated its confidence in the defenses by announcing that its militiamen had withdrawn from Tarragona to "prepared positions situated east of the Walls-Tarragona line." Military observers calculated that the line probably would be located in mountainous areas between Vendrell and Igualada.

The almost unhindered advance of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's columns into ancient Tarragona followed three days of consistent gains in the Catalonian campaign that started Dec. 23.

The shock troops were astonished, these reports declared, when they did not encounter any resistance and were forced to concern themselves principally in turning back a long stream of refugees fleeing the supposed battle zone.

Although they did not name them all, insurgent statisticians asserted 82 villages were captured yesterday while the Tarragona advance was going on. Previously they had set the total at 163 villages since the start of the campaign.

Italy Demanding Insurgent Victory.

(By Associated Press)

Italy struck a heavy blow today to Europe's appeasement hopes by making an insurgent victory in Spain the price for settling her colonial issue with France.

With Generalissimo Francisco Franco's armies driving swiftly toward Barcelona, government capital and seat of its resistance, Italy's stand became of pressing importance.

At Geneva, Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, Spanish government foreign minister, warned France that an insurgent victory in Spain might cost her dearly.

Italy, he pointed out, propably would leave troops in Spain under the pretense of keeping order and thus would hold a potent diplomatic-military club over France. Under such conditions, Alvarez Del Vayo declared, Italy's price might go as high as a demand for Tunisia, France's north African protectorate.

MRS. CAHILL, 49, DIES IN GALION

Had Been Ill a Year; Was Active in Clubs, P. T. A. Activities.

GALION—Mrs Ruth Cahill, 49, wife of V. D Cahill, died at the family home, 339 Harding Way West, at 9:45 a. m. today following a year's illness.

Until her illness one year ago, Mrs. Cahill was active in various clubs and P. T. A. work. She was a member of the Fortnightly, Progress, Arts and Crafts and Garden clubs, and a charter member of the Senior Child Conservation league. She was a member of the Church of Christ of Shreve.

Audit of City Court To Take Another Week, Examiner Says

The audit of the accounts of Mansfield's municipal court will take the rest of the week, State Examiner Elmer Zook said today, and Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch declared he would extend the period of the suspension of Allen K. Ports, clerk of the court, accordingly.

The judge said this morning that he was prepared to take such action, although he had not conferred with Zook, and did not know exactly how long the latter might take to complete his audit.

The judge suspended Ports last week on the ground that "certain irregularities" had been found in his accounts.

Until Zook completes his audit, and turns it over to his superiors at Columbus no action will be taken in the case, other than to keep Ports under suspension. Examiners are not permitted to make public their findings, except through the state office at the completion of their work.

Zook originally planned to close his audit as of Nov. 19, but after conferring with his superiors in Columbus, was instructed to bring the audit up to date. After his return here he said he would complete the audit of court books, dropping for the time being his partially completed audit of city departments.

SPLITS $208,000

County Allocates Personal Tax Funds, City Gets $72,000.

Personal tax receipts totaling $208,196, collected in the last half of 1938, were allocated today to the county and its subdivisions, with Mansfield receiving $72,176 for the largest share.

Mansfield schools, which had drawn heavily on their allocation in advance, received only $12,598. They had previously obtained $45,000 from their $57,598 share. The city had drawn $19,000 of its share in advance.

Other major distributions included $31,960 to the county, $20,009 to the city of Shelby, $10,425 to Madison township schools, $9,240 to Shelby schools, and $2,287 to the village of Plymouth.

Allocations were made on the basis of collections in the subdivisions, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck said.

A payment of $143 was made to the state for the county's use of the state tax commission's facilities.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. SNIVELY

Mrs. Carrie Yearick Dies of Heart Attack at Newark.

ASHLAND — Funeral services for Mrs. Carrie Maude Yearick, 81, widow of a former resident of Ashland, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack at Newark today, will be held at a Newark funeral home at 1 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. H E. Andrews of the First Presbyterian church of Ashland officiating. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

Mrs. Yearick was the widow of G. T. Yearick, former Ashland county treasurer, and the mother of Atty. C. G. L. Yearick of Newark. The son was assistant to Gov. John W. Bricker when the latter was attorney general and served as Licking county prosecutor for three terms.

Her husband, who preceded her in death in 1898, served two terms as Ashland county treasurer from 1870 to 1874.

KILLS WOMAN, KEEPS BODY IN HOME 2 DAYS

Chicagoan Confesses Hatchet Murder, Says Victim Tried to Swindle Him.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—To the amazement of police, Joseph Borys, 62, today confessed he had slain a woman with a hatchet Saturday, and had kept the body in his apartment over the week-end.

Offered voluntarily when he walked into a police station this morning, his story at first was doubted, but investigation disclosed the body lying not ten feet from where Borys and his wife had slept Saturday and Sunday nights.

While the body lay on the bed of a back room, the Borys went about their regular daily routine as usual and delayed notifying police "so we could have a quiet Sunday," the slayer declared.

Makes Swindle Charge.

The dead woman was Mrs. Francis Piotrowski, whom Borys accused of swindling him out of an apartment building into which he had invested his life's savings, and of attempting to evict him from the building.

She came to the building as a roomer, won his confidence and the management of his affairs, induced him to sign some papers which he did not understand, and then informed him he would have to move, according to Borys.

"When I found out I went crazy," he told police. "So I waited until she had gone to bed Saturday night, and then walked in and struck her several times with a hatchet until I knew she was dead."

The body was badly mangled. The hatchet was found in the kitchen.

Despite discovery of the body and hatchet, police worked on a theory that Borys may have fabricated the confession to shield someone.

One of Mrs. Piotrowski's attorneys, explaining the papers which Borys said he signed but did not understand, said they have transferred the apartment building to Mrs. Piotrowski in trust, with the provision that she would take care of the Borys for the rest of their lives.

The slayer's wife, Mrs. Agnes Borys, quietly led police to the body when they arrived after hearing the bizarre confession.

MRS. YOUNG DIES

Loudonville Woman Succumbs at Home at Age 85.

LOUDONVILLE — Mrs. Francenia Young, 85, a lifelong resident of Loudonville, died at her home on East Main street early Sunday morning. Surviving are three sons, Orlie, Fred and Alva, and three grandchildren, all of Loudonville.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Tuesday, at the Zion Lutheran church with the pastor Rev. J. H. Kuhlman officiating. Burial will be in the Loudonville cemetery.

OPENS SERVICES

SHELBY—Dr. J. W. Hoyt of Warsaw, Ind., will open evangelistic services tonight at the First Baptist church in this city. In addition to the evening services, Dr. Hoyt will be in charge of Bible study meetings at 2:30 p. m. at the church on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week. The evangelistic services will be held at 7:30 p. m. every night except Saturday throughout the three-week campaign.

RITES TUESDAY

Dwight W. Moore, 70, Victim of Heart Attack.

Funeral services for Dwight William Moore, 70, who died at his home on the Walker Lake road, Sunday, will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 2:30 p. m., Tuesday, in charge of officers of the Venus lodge. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Mr. Moore died unexpectedly after his return from a neighbor's home. Death was due to a heart attack.

A machinist in the Pennsylvania railroad yards here for 40 years, Mr. Moore, who retired four years ago, was born in Canton, Sept. 16, 1868. He came to this city 56 years ago. He and his wife, Sarah, who survives, would have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary this year. They were married July 3, 1889.

He was a member of the Venus lodge, 152, F. & A. M.; Mansfield chapter, 28, R. A. M., and Mansfield council, 94, R. & S. M.

The survivors include two daughters, Mrs. A. A. Mapes of Cleveland and Mrs. Caroline Butz of Mansfield; three sons, Harry L., Charles W., and Russell E. Moore of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Clarence Sooy of Akron, 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

'WAR RACKET'

Chinese Gangsters Flourish, Pose As Japanese Soldiers.

PEIPING—(AP)—A new racket is growing out of the wirespread practice begun here by the Japanese of searching pedestrians on the street for guns and evidence of "communism."

Chinese gangsters disguised as police halt merchants and other innocents, lead them up dark alleys, and deprive them of their valuables.

Admits Thefts "For Love"

Harry C. Thon, cashier for an automobile insurance company in Chicago, embezzled $31,000 so he could keep the love of Princess Nadja, dancing girl also known as Mercedes de Velasco, according to a confession to police. Thon, resident of suburban Woodstock, was the son of an old and respected family, member of the Country club and active in community social affairs. The girl, he said, was a dancer in a south side night club.

RICHLAND FARM VALUES CLIMB

96 Operated Under U. S. Plan Show Average Gain of $168 During Past Year.

The average value of 96 Richland county farms operated last year under the federal farm security administration plan, showed $168 increase at the beginning of 1939, H. B. Swearingen, FSA supervisor in the Mansfield district, reported today.

Average net value of each farm was $1,322 as compared with $1,154 at the time the farm owner applied for a loan, Swearingen's figures showed.

He attributed the increase in value to sounder management under the program set up by federal supervisors for farm operators who have borrowed federal funds for rebuilding their properties.

The FSA plan provides for long-time loans to farm operators who have been unable to obtain funds from any other source. The money may be used to re-finance loans or for purchasing seed and new equipment and improving the soil.

During the 1938 crop year the 96 participating farm families canned 25,662 quarts of fruit and vegetables for winter use and stored 26,190 pounds of meat, in addition to potatoes and other farm supplies, according to figures compiled by Miss Roberta E. Falkenstein, home management supervisor of the county.

Seventy-two of the families increased their inventories of cattle, hogs, and poultry during the year, she said.

FIDELITY BUCKS RECEIVERSHIP

Charges Suit Filed by 16 Contract Holders Doesn't Warrant Action.

(By Associated Press)

WHEELING, W. Va.—Counsel for the Fidelity Investment association, fighting receivership proceedings, declared today the value of the receivership petitioners' contracts did not "warrant the filing of this highly major litigation."

Attorney Austin V. Wood told Federal Judge William E. Baker the proceedings were started by 16 of the company's 100,000 contract holders and estimated the value of their contracts at approximately $8,000.

Wood described the company sales of investment loan certificates as "the systematic saving of money through monthly deposits" and asserted West Virginia laws governing the Wheeling concern were "much more stringent than those for the banks."

Pointing out the West Virginia state auditor served also as insurance and securities commissioner he contended receivership action would require a charge collusion between the insurance commission and the company or a charge that the commissioner failed to act properly.

The receivership petition, filed by a group of Pennsylvania contract holders who claimed their contracts totaled $56,520, was based on charges of fraudulent practices against the association by the federal securities commission.

The company denied the charges but agreed to the entry of a federal court injunction to prohibit the practices.

ACTRESS TO GET LETTERS BACK

Loretta Young Happy As U. S. Gives Up Love Notes.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Loretta Young will be delighted to know she is going to get back that packet of tender love letters which government agents found in the effects of William B. Buckner, jr.

The okay on returning the love missives to Loretta was given by Assistant U. S. Attorney William P. Maloney who is supervising the investigation into mail fraud charges against Buckner, New York broker.

Maloney so informed his deputy, John Walsh, assistant U. S. attorney, who is in Hollywood endeavoring, without spectacular success, to question movie stars on Buckner's alleged efforts to kite the price of Philippine Railway Co. bonds.

Killer Binds Schoolgirl to Bed, Slays Her With Ax

GIRL'S MOTHER STRUCK DOWN BY MURDERER

Milwaukee Slayer Enters Home Through Window as Widow, Daughter Sleep.

BULLETIN

RACINE, Wis.—(AP)—Sheriff Miles Hulett announced today that a young man giving his name as Ernest John Mahr of Milwaukee had confessed slaying 16-year-old Ruth Scott at Milwaukee early this morning during an attempted burglary.

(By Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE—Ruth Scott, 16-year-old high school student, was killed with an ax early today by an intruder who broke into her home and slew her after tying her arms together and partially stripping her of clothing.

The girl's body, arms bound above her head, was found in a bedroom after her widowed mother, Mrs. James Scott, 57, fought off an attempted attack by the man and aroused tenants living in the upstairs section of their home. Mrs. Scott received a severe gash on the head as she battled with the man in the dark after he invaded her bedroom.

Sees Shadowy Figure.

Mrs. Scott, who is hard of hearing, woke up and saw the shadowy figure of a man standing in her bedroom, a hand-ax in one hand and a butcher knife in the other, she told authorities.

He struck Mrs. Scott on the head as she struggled with him, and then one of the passes he made with the knife hit her right hand, gashing it.

The woman broke away and ran into the kitchen where she turned on the light and saw the body of her daughter lying on a bloodstained bed in the room adjoining.

Ruth had been struck on the head several times with the hand-ax. She was lying face ward, her arms tied above her head to the back of the bed.

Detective Lieutenant James O'Gorman said the girl had not been criminally assaulted although her clothes had been torn.

The ax wielder, who left his weapon behind, escaped when Mrs. Scott fled upstairs to call for help. He had gained entry to the Scott home about 4 a. m. by forcing a bathroom window, O'Gorman said.

O'Gorman said two men who had been acquainted with the family were being sought for questioning. Mrs. Scott told police she had no idea as to the identity of the assailant. He did not utter a word while she struggled with him, she said.

URGES BROADER SECURITY ACT

and should be accomplished in such a way as to involve little, if any, additional cost to the federal government. Such a method embodies a principle that may well be applied to other federal grants-in-aid."

Favors Board's Suggestions.

The president also described as sound two approaches recommended by the board for greater aid to dependent children.

"One way," he said, "is to extend our federal old age insurance system so as to provide regular monthly benefits not only to the aged but also to the dependent children of workers dying before reaching retirement age. The other way to liberalize the federal grants-in-aid to the states to help finance assistance to dependent children."

Regarding the old age and unemployment compensation systems, the president said "equity and sound social policy require that the benefits be extended to all of our people as rapidly as administrative experience and public understanding permit."

"Such an extension," he continued, "is particularly important in the case of the federal old age insurance system. Even without amendment the old age insurance benefits payable in the early years are very liberal in comparison with the taxes paid.

This is necessarily so in order that these benefits may accomplish their purpose of forestalling dependency. But this very fact creates the necessity of extending this protection to as large a proportion as possible of our employed population in order to avoid unfair discrimination.

Hits 'Incompetency.'

The president said much of the success of the act had been due to the fact that all of the programs, with one exception, are administered by the states themselves. He added, however, that in some states "incompetent and politically dominated personnel has been distinctly harmful."

Reviewing operations of the act, the president said more than 2,500,000 needy old pople, blind persons and dependent children are now receiving $500,000,000 a year.

Last year, he added, 3,500,000 unemployed received benefits amounting to $400,000,000. The old age insurance system now covers 42,500,000 persons, who were likened by the president to the policy holders of a private insurance company.

"We shall make the most orderly progress," he said, "if we look upon Social Security as a development toward a goal rather than a finished product. We shall make the most lasting progress if we recognize that Social Security can furnish only a base upon which each one of our citizens may build his individual security through his own individual efforts."

More Snow, More Cold On Way To Plague Skidding Drivers

Mansfielders might as well make up their minds to get used to snow and cold for a while, and Mansfield drivers might as well get used to skidding a bit.

For the snow and cold are both going to stay a while, according to the weather forecast. It says "cloudy and colder, snow flurries tonight, Tuesday fair, and Wednesday snow."

Temperatures were up a little today, hitting 32, but they dropped to a sharp 5 above Saturday night, according to Observer Otto Sprunger.

Alternate freezing and thawing coated the streets with ice and made motor travel a bit hazardous.

Hazardous driving conditions existed throughout Richland and Ashland county, the patrol reported, although all main highways and secondary roads throughout the county were open, officials said.

In Mansfield traffic was slowed up and a full crew of street department workers blanketed the city streets with salt and cinders.

D. D. Orewiler, superintendent of streets, said that his department had spread 50 tons of salt on Mansfield thoroughfares in the past two days in addition to 80 tons of cinders which were sprinkled at intersections and on hills.

Oreiwler estimated that more than 300 tons of snow had been hauled from the downtown section.

Howard C. Sword, county engineer, reported that a full crew of 20 county workers, manning seven snow plows and three maintainers, had completely covered the entire 374 miles of county roads since the first snow fell.

County crews today were sprinkling cinders over the numerous icy spots and on all hills, the engineer said.

3 DENY THEFTS

Norwalk Men Held to Grand Jury in Seed Stealing.

Pleading innocent in municipal court this morning to charges of breaking into a barn in Butler township and stealing 14 bushels of clover seed, three Norwalk men were held for the grand jury today under $2,500 bond each.

The trio, John Bell, 25; Harold Court, 33, and Lavern Huber, 30, were returned to the county jail when they were unable to furnish bond.

ILL ONE WEEK

Mrs. John Witter, 69, Dies at Home in Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS—Mrs. John Witter, 69, died at her home here Saturday night following an illness of one week.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Martha Truka, Mrs. Justine White and Mrs. Veronica Topper of Bucyrus and Mrs. Florence Frederick of Fremont; four sons, Paul of Bucyrus, Edward of Findlay, Joseph of Chillicothe and Victor of Akron; three sisters, Mrs John Glassner of Akron, Mrs. Henry Reinhardt of Sandusky and Mrs. Josephine Kalt of Fremont, and 32 grandchildren. Her husband died 10 years ago.

Mrs. Witter was a member of Holy Trinity Catholic church, the Altar society and Prospect Ladies of Columbia.

Funeral services will be held at Holy Trinity church at 9 a. m. Tuesday, with burial in the Catholic cemetery.

LOSES 3 FINGERS

Transient's Hand Caught by Wheel After Jumping From Car.

Willie Thomas, 35, colored, of Canton, suffered the loss of three fingers on his right hand yesterday noon as he attempted to alight from a freight train as it pulled into the yards near the sewage treatment plant off Ashland road. Police who were called to the treatment plant by the caretaker of the city dump took the man to the hospital.

Thomas told the officers that he was alighting from the train as it slowed up in the yards and fell with one of the wheels passing over his hand.

SOVIETS LASH LINDBERGH AS HITLER'S AGENT

He's 'Window Dressing' for 'Money Rackets,' Communist Paper Declares.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—(U.P.)—The English language edition of the "Communist Internationale," organ of the comintern, today denounced Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a "reactionary Fascist agent of Hitler and Chamberlain."

In a two-page article captioned: "Lindbergh, Father and Son," the organ said: "It is fortunate for Lindbergh's father that he did not live to see his son's betrayal of the democratic ideals for which he himself fought and made sacrifices.

"The father fought the bankers and finance lords . . . the son married into the house of Morgan and is used for window-dressing the unscrupulous money rackets by which the American people are robbed. The elder Lindbergh was a man of the people of Lincoln's type, who if he were living today would certainly be a staunch friend of the Soviet Union. Lindbergh junior has become Hitler's agent and carries out jobs of provocation in the interests of Fascist Germany.

Hits London Speech.

"Lindbergh applied for a Soviet 'tourist' visa. As an American citizen and a well-known flier, his request was met with great politeness. After his return to London, Lindbergh made a speech at Lady Astor's in which he said that Soviet aviation was in a 'chaotic' state. The Soviet press plainly stated that Lindbergh's flight to the Soviet Union was inspired by the Chamberlain circle, who wanted to use Lindbergh's 'authority' in order to belittle the air force of the Soviet Union and to undermine the confidence of Czechoslovakia and France in the military strength of the U. S. S. R. That statement can only arouse derisive laughter.

"Shortly afterward Lindbergh flew to Berlin where Goering pinned a decoration on his breast. And so Hitler lackey received the award he deserved.

"Lindbergh junior used his reputation to help the rich against the poor. He is in the service of the Fascist war mongers. He stands at the side of the Fascist dictatorships against the forces of peace and democracy."

BACK IN JAIL

Father Charged With Violating Probation, Held.

When he was unable to account for a $75 difference between his actual earnings last July and the amount he reported to Harry Crouse, county probation officer, Ralph Williams, 31, colored, of Lorain, was sent back to the county jail this morning following his arraignment in common pleas court.

Williams, who was returned here Saturday from Lorain by Deputy Sheriff F. E. Robinson to face the charge, reported his July earnings as $26. Judge Huston said figures show he actually received $101 that month. Williams was unable to explain the difference. He was placed on probation in 1936 and ordered to pay a part of his earnings to his wife.

HUNT SEDAN IN KIDNAPING CASE

Police Make Check of County for Car in Which Woman Said She Was Abducted.

Police today were making a check throughout Richland county for a large black sedan in which a 22-year-old married woman reported she was abducted by two men early Friday evening as she waited for a bus at South Main and Second streets.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said that a complete description of the car had been obtained from the woman but that the license number she gave and the car bearing it did not tally with the description.

The chief said he planned further questioning of the woman who said that she was abducted and driven near Bellville where she finally escaped from her captors.

Mrs. Eleanore Wright, told police that while she was waiting at the intersection at 7:30 p. m., Friday the sedan pulled to the curb and a man got out, placed a hand over her mouth and forced her into the machine.

Mrs. Wright reported that she fled to a farmhouse on the Little Washington road after escaping from the men. Taken to Lucas she obtained a ride back to Mansfield.

BRITAIN JOINS U. S. IN PROTEST OF JAP ACTIONS

Note, Threatening Economic Pressure on Nippon, Stirs Dispute in London.

(By United Press)

LONDON— A tug-of-war between government departments on the question of bringing economic and commercial pressure against Japan for interfering with British interests in China was revealed today with the contents of a new and stronger British note to Tokyo.

The note reflects the desire of the foreign office to take a strong stand against Japan because the United States is following that policy.

The note closely resembled the one sent by the United States on Jan. 1. It firmly refused to accept Japan's plan to create an economic bloc of Japan, Manchukuo and China without regard for the "open door" policy guaranteed by the nine-power treaty.

It was understood that the British note had been approved by the United States and French governments before it was sent to Tokyo, and that France would send a similar note to Japan soon.

Diplomatic correspondents asserted today that their government's note was a "last warning" to Japan and predicted British, French and American economic penalties against Japan if she continued ignoring protests.

Although the note did not mention retaliatory action, it was understood that the foreign office would like to strike at Japan's trade and give financial aid to China. The board of trade and the treasury departments, however, want to deal cautiously with the Japanese on the ground that Britain's £300,000,00 ($1,500,000,000 investment in China and valuable British trade with the Far East would be endangered if Britain provoked Japan.

It was believed that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain ultimately would decide the issue. Some quarters thought his decision would be largely determined by President Roosevelt's action, if any, toward alleged Japanese discrimination against United States commerce in China.

The British note marked a continuation of the "parallel policy" which Britain is anxious to pursue with the United States and expressed "uncertainty and grave anxiety" over Japan's plan to create a Far Eastern economic bloc in which the activities of other nations would be restricted.

CHAPTER 48

"Bob Towne, you have simply got to stop proposing to me every time we meet. I am very happy about the Columbian award. Happy for you. I think you deserve every dollar of it. But that has nothing to do with you and me."

Sara Sue wasn't going to let Bob get into a balmy mood, if she could help it. Men are much more difficult to handle then, if you are by nature kind.

"Aw, but listen, Sara Sue — didn't you hear what Sanders just said? He said—he said it was all right! He congratulated me. You MUST have told him something, didn't you? Come on, this is no time for teasing!"

She sighed heavily.

"I'm not teasing."

"You are."

"I'm not, I tell you. I—I don't want to be flip about it, Bob, you know that. I wouldn't hurt anybody's feeling for the world. But I did not say I would marry you."

"Well, you can say it now, can't you? Grea-a-at glory, Sara Sue I'm crazy about you! You know I am."

"I ought to by now." She said it resignedly, looking beyond him.

"Then let's get married. Hunh? . . . Listen, kid—" Bob's voice and manner changed abruptly then. He dropped almost to a whisper, and pleaded as earnestly as he knew how.

Sara Sue knew that he was in earnest, too. She could tell. Most of the time Bob Towne was blustery, noisy, peppery. But Sara Sue was wise enough to know that such an outward manner often covers a fine sensitivity. She had long ago known that it did in Bob Towne.

His softer urging, therefore, stirred and hurt her more than his bluster. She had just forced herself out of one emotional experience, had just stopped crying because she had to turn T. J. Sanders down. It may be flattering, she was reflecting, but it is also nerve rending to have two young men offer you their hearts and souls in the same half hour. Especially if each is a go-getter type, full of energy, strong. She just could not maintain her pose of crusty bantering; the tears came back into her eyes.

And the tears — surprisingly— did the trick.

Big Bob Towne, no spiritual fool even if he was a football man, was pleading as earnestly as he knew how— "and I'll work for you and slave for you, honey; honest I will. I'll be anything you want me to be. I'll have this money—I'm going to ask T. J. to stand up with us, should I?—and it'll be enough to start us out. If you'd rather I finish school, I will; but honey, I wish you would marry me at once and—aw-w-w-w honey! . . . Sara Sue! . . . You're crying!"

He had concluded in a bare whisper. He looked into her eyes for several seconds. She was silent, but he had his final answer.

Slowly he took a handkerchief and blotted her tears. He pleaded no more, spoke no more at all; in fact, never in all his life thereafter did Bob Towne mention this moment to Sara Sue again, never did he again mention, flippantly or otherwise, that he had loved her, wanted her, yearned for her as devotedly as he knew how.

They had been sitting together, even as she and T. J. had been sitting together a few minutes ago. Bob put his hand under her elbow, helped her to rise. Then he patted her shoulder ever so gently. That was all. They started walking toward the ballroom. A hullabaloo there assailed them.

When a dance floor has more than 800 people on it, in all the varying stages of hilarity and motion and happiness and noise, one more man shouting frantically is not likely to be understood on the opposite side of the room. Bob and Sara Sue paid little attention at first. But then the orchestra stopped, heads began to turn, and words began to be clear. The shouting man was moving, and waving a hand.

"SARA SUE . . . WAIT, I TELL YOU! . . . WAIT! . . I LOVE YOU MYSELF! AND I . . "

The utterly amazing proclamation startled everyone into silent attention.

Sara Sue began to hear, to understand, to recognize him. "It's Thornton," she murmured, incredulous. "It's Thornton Holgate! . . . What in the world—?"

The young professor was plowing through people much as he had plowed through salt waves off Galveston; pushing and pulling and swimming, and shouting instructions the while. Wild, frantic instructions. Nobody laughed, yet; nobody quite understood. Was this another gag? Another floor show act? Whatever—?

"Oh, Sara Sue, am I too late? Are you—?"

"Why, Thornton, what in the world is it? Do you realize what you are doing? And saying?" Sara Sue almost shouted herself now. Everyone strained to listen.

"Oh, my darling, I do! I am saying that I love you and want to marry you." He paused momentarily, to swallow and catch his breath. "Is it true that someone—Towne—was proposing to you? Have you accepted him? Is there no hope? Oh, I have been so blind, Sara Sue! So incredibly blind, and stupid. Can you forgive me? Can you give me time to prove my affection? To show—"

He held out a hand in supplication.

His astounded audience, including Sara Sue herself, was enthralled by his manner. No one laughed. No one smiled. Here was drama, abject, gripping drama, and everybody seemed to sense it instantly. Some may have thought it an act, but certainly they wanted to see it through. A somewhat disheveled young man, a young Rice professor whom most of them knew because of recent publicity, was openly and earnestly proposing marriage to a beautiful girl. And he seemed obvious of the crowd around them. Oblivious of everything in God's world save The Girl who stood there.

"I was wrong, darling, wrong! I asked your help, but it was you I wanted, not she. I knew it weeks ago, and my foolish pride held me back. I was thinking, hoping, some way would be made clear for me to make love to you, yourself. You, Sara Sue! Not her. Not her, I tell you! I knew the minute I first saw you that it was you, that night we talked, while it rained. But I—you—you were an ideal, and I—I—oh, what a fool I have been!"

"Why, Thornton! . . . Why Thornton!"

She could not speak coherently. She reached tremulously as if to touch him, then withdrew her hand and put it to her mouth.

"Why, Thornton!"

"I have only now learned that you may be engaged. I came, hastening, running. I am sorry if I—Oh, I must have upset things here!" He glanced for the first time at the amazed listeners around them. "But I do not care. This transcends conventions, my dear. It does! I love you. I care not who knows, or hears. If it is not too late—no matter, I love you anyway. I always have. I always shall!"

"For God's sake!" some voice in the crowd rumbled.

And that broke the tension. A veritable explosion of words, exclamations, laughs, everything, came then.

"Why T-T-Thornton!" Her voice was breaking now, and her dainty chin was trembling. She was gazing intently into his eyes, her own misty and deep and calm. "T-Thornton! Yes, Thornton!"

The noise subsided, and people moved back away from them, there almost in the middle of the floor. She was in his arms—he was still talking, pouring out his very soul —and she was looking up, nodding.

They were still there a full minute later, and a hush almost sublime had settled again over the staring crowd. Here and there was excited murmuring and whispering. And the appreciative orchestra leader, accustomed perhaps to unexpected drama, raised his baton, spoke a word or two; music suffused them, muted, tuneful music. Could it have been a wedding song? Lohengrin? Still oblivious, Sara Sue and Thornton began to walk away; he was still talking, but slowly, softly now. He had an arm around her; he held a hand. They moved down the University club stairs.

"Ho hum and hi-de-ho" yawned Bob Towne, when he met T. J. Sanders at the hat checking counter.

"Yep," said T. J., not smiling. "Well, I'll be seeing you."

They were almost the last ones to depart. They were tired, and looked it.

"Guess I'll leave these last two coats," Freshman Gurley said. "They belong to Sara Sue and Dr. Holgate. They didn't call for them. Say, Bob, I thought the upperclassmen were going to mix up the checks, or something?"

"Phooey, slime. Go on home. Your wife is already asleep around there in an easy chair. I ought to beat you for neglecting her. Maybe I will."

(The End.)

HOROSCOPE READER PREDICTS HITLER'S DOWNFALL IN 1939

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Hitler's downfall will occur this year, according to the Honorable Ralph Shirley, a well-known English horoscope reader.

A former editor of an old quarterly review known as "The Horoscope," Shirley successfully prophecied the abdication of King Edward VIII.

Forecasting the doom of Hitler in a letter to a London evening newspaper, Shirley writes:

"I told everyone early this year that we should be on the brink of war but that nothing would come of it.

"Hitler will, I am convinced, be right out of the picture after next summer. Then the outlook will be brighter. Watch the summer around about August in connection with Hitler.

"I think there is some upheaval coming in central Europe. We may have serious cause for anxiety before then.

"But I do not believe in any repetition of the Great war, but menace of war I daresay and fighting in Europe and popular riots.

"In any case, count Hitler off the slate. A black cloud hangs over him this coming summer, however strong his position may look earlier in the year.

"Mussolini, too, is threatened with powerful enemies. Will he weather the storm? I wonder."

Besides being an astrologist, Shirley is a scholar, and he has written many books. One is entitled "The Mystery of the Human Double," and discusses people's consciousness outside their bodies, and cites Virgil, Ovid and Goethe in support of the theory of reincarnation.

SEEKS RELEASE IN FATAL CRASH

Shelby Firm Claims Insurance Wasn't Transferred; Sues to Escape Liability.

The Shelby Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company today filed a suit in common pleas court asking that it be freed of liability for payment of insurance up to $15,000 and damages suits totaling $40 000 involving a fatal accident last June on Lexington avenue, Mansfield.

The insurance firm brought its action after the damage suits were filed in Cuyahoga county by administrators of the estate of Miss Ada Kovachy, Cleveland who was killed in the crash, and four other persons who suffered injuries.

Naming six defendants in the case, the Shelby firm seeks to escape liability on the grounds that the automobile driven by Richard Strominger, who is serving a term in Mansfield reformatory for manslaughter, was transferred from Paul F. Heineking to his mother, Mrs Ida Heineking, without a transfer of insurance on the car.

The insurance company issued a policy on the car in June, 1937, covering liabilities up to $15,000. Following the accident last June, the company returned a premium payment to Heineking, who refused it, the petition states.

Three persons, all occupants of the car in which Miss Kovachy was riding, were injured in the crash which involved two automobiles and a truck owned by the Dandee Pretzel and Potato Chip company, Cleveland, one of the defendants.

Other defendants are Strominger who was sentenced to the reformatory as driver of the Heineking car, Charlotte Turk, Mary M. Kovachy, and Edward J. Turk, all of Cleveland.

"Pains Gloriously Relieved," Says Joyful Local Lady

Could barely get around at times, but now tells how Vendol has made her feel like a new person.

MRS. FRANK MATUSAVAGE

If, because of suffering from constipation, you are a victim of pains and aches which make you believe you have rheumatism and have also brought on indigestion, nervousness, dizzy spells and so many other symptoms associated with a constipated condition, you should visit the Central Drug Store and let the Vendol Man explain what this full strength compound has done to help so many others who suffered the same way. Vendol may be able to help you just as it did Mrs. Frank Matusavage residing on Bowman Rd., route 1, Mansfield, who tells her experience as follows:

"Vendol has done me worlds of good. Constipation had bothered me for quite a while, but recently seemed everything went wrong when the constipation was worse. I had such aches and pains in my arms, shoulders, back and limbs that I thought I was full of rheumatism. Many a night these pains kept me awake and the agony was so bad sometimes I could hardly keep going.

"In addition to these pains, I often had spells of indigestion which caused gas, belching, tight feeling in my stomach and shortness of breath, a quivery feeling, and I seldom got good restful sleep.

"This went on for months, then I read how Vendol was helping people all around here, so I got a treatment. It gave the most satisfying relief from constipation, then the aches, pains, indigestion and other troubles gradually disappeared and today I'm like a different person. I can't too strongly advise those suffering like I did, to start taking Vendol without delay."

Vendol is sold and highly recommended by leading druggists everywhere, and you can always get it at the Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., where the Vendol Man is on hand to explain all about it. Come see him today if possible.

It will take more than 30-hour work weeks for taxpayers to keep up with federal expenditures.

That new Circumferential Highway in Queens, New York, seems to supply an excellent word for use in testing drivers suspected of intoxication.

Needless Jobs Waste Taxpayers' Money.

HOWEVER c' - taxpayers may be in disagreement, they are apparently in very general accord with the idea that no public jobs should be created and maintained merely to pay a salary to a political party worker.

Addition of "deserving" Davey Democrats to the public payroll was notoriously done in advance of the August primaries last year, with particularly brazen job-making in state liquor stores.

Among the early moves of the Bricker administration is a paring down of this waste of taxpayers money, and there is reason to feel that similar reductions of unneeded personnel will be found practicable in other departments of state government, with probable increase in efficiency.

There is sympathy, of course, for all unemployed persons, but this sympathy is less evident in instances of those who go through years as political hangers-on, with no apparent inclination to engage in productive employment but always on the lookout for some soft snap on the public payroll.

Pressure will naturally be brought on the present state administration to place Republicans in superfluous jobs from which Democrats are being removed. The real test of present evidence of economy policies in state government will come when it must be decided whether needless jobs are really abolished or simply passed from one political party to the other.

There Is Also a Bright Side.

MANY Americans have long deplored the flag-waving, eagle-screaming brand of patriotism, but they approve the current movement to call attention to our country's worth and beauty, to awaken love of its virtues and eagerness to correct its faults.

What's the matter with America? Very little, when you get right down to it, and nothing that can't be changed for the better if we set about the task with a will. Unemployment, poverty, crime, ignorance and disease we have, but nobody should accept these as inevitable or permanent. The final answers have been found for none of them, but progress is made toward finding them.

Over against those evils we have opportunity, social welfare work, free public education and health institutions, not perfect in achievement, but steadily advancing in theory and practice. Freedom and justice for all, however we may fall short of them, are yet the steady goals toward which we work.

Along with our great social and spiritual foundations, we have the material foundation of natural resources, varied climate and scene, beauties of nature unsurpassed.

Battle Against Infantile Paralysis.

GOVERNOR LEHMAN has proclaimed January as Poliomyelitis Campaign Month in the state of New York and urges citizens there to give generous support to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He said in his proclamation:

"For almost 100 years parents have lived in dread of this disease, which with frightful suddenness can kill or cripple their children.

"Several thousand children in this state are victims of its virulence and of our ignorance of health preservation methods. Though knowledge has advanced, more research is needed to discover the means by which its spread may be prevented.

"Opportunities are being lost to restore to useful activity children who have been handicapped by the disease. Funds are lacking to provide for proper health supervision of these young victims."

The Foundation which is now engaged in this battle, using the weapons of research and education, was set up with funds raised by parties held on President Roosevelt's recent anniversaries. Its work is now to 'e continued and supported by additional funds raised by this year's birthday balls.

With widespread and continued effort, infantile paralysis may some day be deprived of its mystery and power and be brought under control that prevents its ravages. Success in combatting tuberculosis by popular education and support sets an inspiring example.

Ordinance Requires Snow Removal.

DELVING into the ordinances of the city of Mansfield, Chief of Police Bates finds a long-forgotten bit of legislation which deals with the subject of snow on sidewalks.

Reference to this ordinance discloses that it is not only incumbent on occupants of buildings "fronting on any sidewalk" to clean snow and ice from the aforementioned sidewalk, but that it also devolves upon owners of vacant lots to do likewise, even to the extent of cleaning snow from sidewalks along both frontages of corner lots—with a penalty of $5 to $50 fine for each offense.

Mansfield has a number of interesting city ordinances. It's nice to have an occasional one dug up for enforcement.

Sauce for Dictators.

THE trouble in dealing with Mussolini now has been made clear in the joint session of the house and senate military committees at Washington. Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy, who came from Paris and London to give first-hand information, are said to have reported to the committee in this fashion:

"Senate and house members were given the idea that Mussolini has seen Hitler get away with so much, and make such territorial gains, that he feels he can and should follow suit."

It is a natural attitude for Mussolini to take in his dealings with Premier Chamberlain. What is sauce for the Nazi goose is sauce for the Fascist gander. This consequence might have been foreseen when Britain surrendered at Munich.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—It requires 29 separate cards to catalog the writings of Felix Frankfurter in the Congressional library.

The list emphasizes how often the president's latest supreme court appointee has written on the supreme court and the constitution as well as how repeatedly he has thrown aside his professorial cloak to battle in court for special causes.

The writings suggest another thing—the harmony of the views of Frankfurter and that of the three justices, Holmes, Cardozo and Brandeis, whose tradition the new appointee is expected to carry on.

And what is the Holmes-Brandeis-Cardozo tradition?

It can be defined as the course pursued by the majority of the court since its historic reversal of its course in 1937. But it includes at least one other thing. It includes a sustained opposition to the course of the court under which the "due process" and "liberty of control" clauses in the constitution have been so interpreted as to shelter property and contract rights far beyond intentions of the constitution as seen by the three justices.

Current Works Popular.

MOST read by laymen and lawyers alike are his current works in which he discusses the interpretations of the constitution by Holmes, Brandeis and Cardozo. Especially interesting are the quotations in the essay on Cardozo, since it was written while Frankfurter was being publicly discussed as a potential supreme court member.

Frankfurter's pupils, of which this city has dozens once known as the "hot dogs," often speak of "the master's" apt choice of words and pat phrases. The essay on Cardozo includes an instance or two. He speaks of the "contagious goodness" of the late justice, and later describes him as "one of the most powerful moral resources of the nation."

Included are Franfurter's comments on current subjects. "The radiations of taxation have steadily extended the intrusion of government into economic affairs," he wrote, adding: "The task of statesmanship in tapping new resources of revenue without killing the goose that lays the golden eggs have correspondingly multiplied."

* * *

Shows Note of Leniency.

HE FRANKLY recognizes that congress must practice before it can fiddle, a note of good-natured leniency which may comfort many a troubled legislator.

"Fallible wisdom produces fallible legislation. To deny government the right to act except with omniscience and prescience is to deny it the right to act at all."

In his writings on Holmes, Brandeis and Cardozo it is notable that he finds and commends one characteristic outstanding in all. It harks back to the bitter assertion of Justice Stone two years ago that several "conservative" members of the court were voting their "personal economic predilections" in throwing out New Deal laws instead of deciding without bias whether they were constitutional.

Never, says Frankfurter, were Holmes, Brandeis or Cardozo guilty of that. Each, says Frankfurter, was ready to "sustain as a judge" pieces of legislation whose wisdom he doubted but whose constitutionality he recognized. Of Holmes, he wrote recently:

"His skepticism and even hostility, as a matter of private judgment, toward legislation which he was ready to sustain as a judge only serve to add cubits to his judicial stature. For he thereby transcended personal predilections and private notions of social policy, and became truly the impersonal voice of the constitution."

DEPENDING ON A NEW HELPER

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

HOLLYWOOD is having a headache over villains. Obviously, the heavy must have some kind of nationality, and no matter what it is there's almost invariably an angry kickback from his supposed country and an embargo on the film. It is really serious.

The cost of making Grade A films is so great that they must be sold abroad. The way things are now, any hint of the slightest short-coming on the part of a citizen of another country fans a heavy percentage out of the "takes." The villain is, indeed, a man without a country.

"He might have been a Russian, he might have been a Prussian, or just an English—man," to paraphrase the Savoyards, but such easy-going indifference among the nations has passed with the golden age of Gilbert and Sullivan, of Henry Murgier's Latin Quarter, of Vienna's beloved Ringstrasse, of Rome's mellow old El Greco cafe and all those other historic solvents of petty insularity, all those clearing houses for civilized intercourse among the tribes of man. Provincials we are again, hating, suspecting dwellers on the other side of the mountain.

SOMETHING must be done about it and this department offers a possible solution. Obviously, the thing to do is to pick out some thrifty little toy republic, like San Marino, which knows its percentage, and is willing to make a deal by which any fellow up to skullduggery in the films may be written down as a Marinista, or whatever it may be.

For a world box-office cut, San Marino might be willing to take the rap for celluloid safe-cracking, international conspiracy, kidnaping, train-wrecking and violent, treacherous and subversive villainy in general. There could be an international consortium of powers by which it could be formally agreed that, for a price, San Marino would accept for all time the unilateral role of the world's film villain.

There is one circumstance which makes this an eminently safe and practicable plan. San Marino has nothing that other European nations want—no oil, coal, steel, raw materials or outlets to the sea. But for this, the plan would be dangerous, as such portrayal of wickedness would provide other powers with high moral sanctions for grabbing San Marino—if it had anything they wanted.

A FRIEND of mine, an old-timer who was around Goldfield in the days of the Gans-Nelson fight, tells me they had just the same trouble when they staged the melodrama, "In Old Nevada," in their big, new, draughty, highly inflammable hippodrome. It loomed up in the desert like a gigantic barn. They had built it more or less on impulse, without having much of an idea what they were going to do with it. So there was nothing to do but give a play.

The villain in the script was a rat and had other faults. The chaps who were getting up the play were of the desert chivalry, of the higher levels of two-gun society in those parts, and the casting director nearly got shot whenever he tried to assign the role of the villain. This hombre not only put the squeeze on a nice old chap, but he stole the girl, stole money right and left, snarled and barked and was deep in lechery and double-dealing. Around the Montezuma club just a hint that anybody might take this role became fighting talk.

Trying to find a villain, they worked down through the mercantile classes, including the bartenders. Nobody would accept the part. It was a good deal like finding somebody to play Scarlet O'Hara today. Finally, as a last chance, they put it up to a pallid little shoe clerk, a sharp-featured little man with a high, squeaky voice and a Down-East accent. He had come West to make money and, for a price, accepted the role—the only paid actor in the cast. Even when draped with ferocious black whiskers, he was too anaemic and too flat-chested for a plausible villain.

Here the story fails as a paradigm for our plans for putting screen villainy on an international business basis. The villain's pay-off line was, "Yes, I did take the money—but I defy you." In the shoe-clerk's shrill, frost-bitten accent, it was not convincing. The bass drummer in the orchestra hit his drum a lusty whack. That moved some amateur dramatic critic in the audience to shoot off his gun. The villain took a dive through an offstage window. They almost had to call out the militia before they got the mob of desert rats and sourdoughs under control. And, of course, the play ended there.

Hollywood has, of course, plenty of competent villains. It will be merely a question of getting some country to stand for them.

Peak Season for Colds.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

JANUARY 20th is the date of the largest number of colds. It is also the date of the lowest temperature in the United States. So there is a reason for calling colds, "colds."

The incidence of colds is lowest from June 20 to July 28. It begins to rise sharply about the 10th of September. There is another sharp rise in the last week in November, and this rise reaches its peak Jan. 20th. Then there is a gradual and steady fall. March 7th shows about as many colds at Nov. 25th. A drop of 10 degrees increases the incidence of colds nearly one per cent.

These figures were compiled year after year by the Metropolitan Insurance company, using its employes and their absent days on account of colds as a basis.

Age Is Factor.

There is one other important factor in catching cold—age. The largest number of colds occurs in those under four years of age—2,400 in a group studied. The rate falls steadily until it reaches 1,000 at the ages of 15 to 24. Then, for some reason, it rises again to 1,500 at 35 and then falls steadily, so that people at the age of 55 are practically free from colds.

Both these sets of figures have some significance. Cold weather and especially cold damp weather conditions unquestionable play some part in the tendency to catch cold. Just what the mechanism is cannot be agreed on by all students of the question. Perhaps the best explanation is that based on the experiments of Drs. Taylor and Dyrenforth, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Their experiments showed that cold water reduces bodily temperatures more rapidly than cold air, thus lowering resistance. Here the factor of getting wet is explained.

Loss of body heat produces definite changes in the membrane of the nose. There is blanching and reduction of blood supply. The temperature of the inside of the nose may go down as much as 10 degrees when the body is exposed to cold. Certainly these changes lower the resistance of the membrane to infection, and make entrance of the virus of the common cold easy.

The white cells of the blood are also reduced on exposure to cold. These are the cells which fight infection of all kinds.

It is worth noting that exercise while exposed to cold does not produce these changes. So that if you have to get cold and wet these day, keep moving around.

All these data support the old-fashioned ideas about keeping bundled up this weather. It is an especially good plan to wear heavy socks or stockings.

Junkyard For Jaloppies.

If offered the choice of a stiff fine, a workhouse sentence, or losing a dilapidated automobile, most people would take the latter alternative.

Traffic violators in Cleveland are being given that selection, providing they have been piloting a jaloppy. The idea belongs to Judge Joe Ackerman who sends the car off to the junkpile instead of sending the driver to a cell.

That's okay, too. Machines themselves are sometimes more responsible for accidents than their owners. Faulty brakes, a balky motor, worn tires, loose steering apparatus, and lack of good lighting can bring about some terrible catastrophes.

In the junkyard, the relics are of some good, at least. On the streets they are a menace. In the interest of traffic safety we could use a few more ideas like that of Judge Ackerman.

At least, drivers could look forward to the day when they wouldn't have to swallow the exhaust of these old cars in a traffic jam. -Fremont Messenger.

Should Gray Hairs, Per Se, Be Protected?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOUNG AMERICA once again Starting Something. To be specific, Nedra Anderson of Denver, Col., suggesting that "gray hairs be regarded as assets, not liabilities, and protected against greedy employers and ambitious youth."

I wonder But here's how Nedra puts it—

"Is it good business to replace workers who are past 40 with green youngsters? Maybe the youngster can step a little faster and is willing to accept lower wages. But, after all, does the employer get more for his money. A few gray hairs and wrinkles should be regarded as assets, not liabilities, because they mean years of valuable experience and represent a long period of faithful service.

"I believe an employer should also take into consideration a man's pride, his obligations to his family. After years of fine service, during which he has built up a reputation in the community, no self-respecting man wants to go on relief or take a WPA job. And if he has children, he has ambitions for them; he wants to educate them . . . give them a fair break in life. AN EMPLOYER WHO DISCHARGES A MAN AT 40 IS NOT ONLY HURTING THE EMPLOYE — HE'S ALSO DEALING HIS CHILDREN A FOUL BLOW . . . STRIKING DIRECTLY AT THE YOUTH OF AMERICA!

Nedra Anderson, age 18, Denver, Colo.

Fine heart work, Nedra girl, but I wonder if it makes sense. First you may be sure of this—NO BUSINESS MAN WHO IS WORTH THE NAME WILL REPLACE A REALLY VALUABLE EMPLOYE FOR AN UNTRIED WORKER, AT ANY PRICE. The more ruthless the employer, the more sure a worker may be that his profit-serving talent will be protected.

But you—bless your generous soul—would go even further and protect 40-year-old gray hairs regardless. And many will agree with you. But would that be fair to anyone? It isn't the gray hairs that should count, but what's under them. If a man has kept in step with the times . . . if he has accumulated balance, strength and wisdom with the years, then by all means keep him and reward him accordingly, says I.

BUT I CAN SEE NO REASON WHY ANY GRAY HAIRS, INCLUDING MY OWN, SHOULD BE REWARDED SIMPLY BECAUSE THEY HAVE HUNG AROUND THROUGH A CERTAIN NUMBER OF CALENDAR YEARS.

Neither personal pride nor family obligations nor human pity offers any reason for retaining a worker simply because he or she has bridge-work and a false front. Either you have what it takes—or you haven't. And in either case—IT'S UP TO YOU. AND NO ONE SHOULD BLAME THE BOSS.

No one could have more tender regard for the aged and infirm, than I, my dear . . . and no one has struggled more to serve their interest. YET I TRULY BELIEVE THAT THESE VARIOUS PLATFORMS WHICH HAVE BEEN ADVANCED TO SERVE THE AGED HAVE DONE THEM FAR MORE HARM THAN GOOD. After all, human nature is pretty much the same at sixty as at six. Make a six-year-old realize that he'll have to solve his own problems—or take the painful consequences—and he'll put up a mighty smart struggle. But once let him think that he can get what he wants by staging a Pity Strike, and he'll fleece you to a fare-ye-well. That isn't Frenzied Finance; it's merely Human Nature.

Which statement will probably prove lethal—but I stick by my guns. I've seen hairs of every color—bronze, brunette, gold or gray. Either behind the bars or deserving to be there. BUT I'VE YET TO SEE ANY REASON FOR RESPECTING EITHER GRAY HAIR OR ANY OTHER COLOR HAIR UNLESS WHAT'S BEHIND THEM HAS WHAT IT TAKES. OR IS WILLING TO LEARN HOW . . . PRONTO!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Most people seem to like "Here Come the Clowns," a new play by Philip Barry, but very few profess to understand it. It has provoked more comment and elicited more widely varied interpretations than any of the season's entertainments. This much I will say. It is superb entertainment. I'm not sure that I understand what Barry is trying to say. Expressed through a group of unhappy vaudeville artists, it is, I think, a man's search for God. . . . But I came away with the impression that Satan, and not God, ruled this earth.

After the show I went back stage to talk with Leo Chalzel, who impersonates the illusionist, and Frank Gabby, the ventriloquist, and naturally their first question was — "What did you think of it? Do you think we'll have a run!" They had grease smeared on their hands and faces, removing the paint, and when I expressed the opinion that I thought they'd certainly have a good run, Gabby turned to Chalzel. "Let's shake a greasy hand, pal," he boomed. "Congratulations."

* * *

I THINK they will have a good run. That play is intriguing, provocative entertainment. It turns a miscroscope on a group of life's misfits—a dwarf, a drunken press-agent, a ventriloquist, an illusionist, etc.—all in the back room of a speakeasy after the theater at night. The central character is a dim-witted, one-eyed stagehand whose wife has betrayed him, whose child has died, whose job has been taken, whose whole existence now seems to be a pitious, inexplicable search for the "Why" of all these misfortunes.

The illusionist, who is really the devil in disguise, has a field-day unmasking these ill-assorted clowns, setting them against each other, driving them toward their certain ruin.

He takes the ventriloquist, and through the dummy on his knee, completes the wreckage of that unhappy man's marriage. It is the husband, through the dummy, who denounces and flays his wife until she, in a frenzy of shame and anger and humiliation, leaps up and destroys the dummy. It is a breathless and engrossing business.

EACH of the troupe—the dwarf, the stagehand — is similarly dealt with by the cunning illusionist, and in the end the stagehand dies from a disdirected bullet fired by the drunken press-agent.

But before he dies a new light comes to his eyes, a light of understanding, and he professes now to have a satisfactory answer for all the humilities, the betrayals, the unkindnesses that have been his. He says he understands.

I hope he does understand. I don't. I mean, Barry's answer that God is to be found in man's will is not the answer I got out of his play. But, after all, that is unimportant. The theater is for entertainment— and this play is entertainment grade A.

Helen Claire, the little southern girl in "Kiss the Boys Goodby," has a colored maid named Magnolia. Sounds like she came out of a book, but she didn't. She and Helen both came out of Alabama.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Amortize"—To Put to Death.

Amortization, very much in the day's news, is a good old word whose meaning has been extended and made figurative for application to present day conditions.

"Amortize" is the modern of the Old English amortisen to put to death. Its easily recognizable cognates are, among others, mortal a being subject to death, mortuary a burial place, mortify to destroy organic structure.

With the growth of financial institutions in Europe, a term was needed to describe the gradual killing off of a mortgage or other form of indebtedness.

What better selection could have been made than the expressive "amortize," which etymologically and traditionally signified the destruction or extinguishment of the principle.

A Farmer's Diary

The Shrew.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I RESTED upon a log, after a hasty walk across our woods. As I sat there, quietly, I saw a gray squirrel dart along the snow, dig about hurriedly at several places, then, with long skillful strides climb a distant tree.

Near at hand, by accident, my glance fell upon a noiseless movement. It was a tiny, short-tailed shrew, no longer than my thumb. The long, leathery, protruding snout whisked back and forth in search of something. The dark, slaty coat and head apparently bereft of eyes and ears, made him appear, to the casual eye, a mole. But the smallness, the tiny straight fore legs, and the business-like alertness told a strange and different story.

He went directly to a tiny field mouse's hole, and entered as nonchalantly as if it had always been his home. Within a second, or even less, I heard mice squeaking frantically and as I hurriedly held my ear to the small opening, I caught the muffled sound of deadly combat. It seemed that several mice were living there.

The shrew made not a sound, but in less than a moment the noise of battle ceased and I thought I heard bones grinding under sharp, small teeth. The shrew was feasting happily upon the warm flesh of his victims.

I waited a half hour, but the fierce evil one,—"the biter," as his name suggests.—did not come out. He will probably remain within the burrow until his food supply is gone.

He is a ravenous eater, gorging his own weight every six hours. His insatiate urge of appetite makes him travel far afield at night, or even in daylight, in constant search for a sumptuous livelihood.

They average about three to every acre in this section, and the farmer owes to this little active night marauder a lasting gratitude for keeping down dangerous insect pests which teem the wastes and fertile fields, and eventually would possess the land.

SALES TAX DOWN $139,000 HERE

Reduction in 1938 Receipts in County in Line With Slump in Rest of State.

Like every section in the state, Richland county showed a marked decline in sales tax collections in 1938 from the preceding year, with the county's total receipts falling $139,280 below the revenue from this source in 1937.

The slump last year for the entire state amounted to $10,460,000, which deprived schools and local governments of a large percentage of their anticipated operating revenue for the year.

Richland county's receipts in 1938 were $430,000 as compared with $569,580 in 1937, Sate Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported.

Despite the decline for the entire year, the county's collection for the final weeks of 1938 jumped above receipts for the same period in 1937.

In the last week in December Richland county buyers paid $12,158 in sales tax, a decided increase over the $8,860 collected in the same week of 1937. County receipts for the week between Christmas and Jan. 1 were only $3,000 below the amount paid during the pre-holiday week, considered one of the best business weeks of the year

A Skid---and Death---In New York Blizzard

The body of Robert J. Whelan, jr., grandson of founder of Whelan chain stores, lies on road, covered with snow, at Garden City, in New York, during the city's blizzard. Investigating slight collision between his car and truck ahead, Whelan stepped between the two cars. Third machine skidded into his, pinning him against the truck and crushing him to death.

FATIGUE TESTS BARRED

NORMAN, Okla.—(U.P.)—University of Oklahoma officials have halted the fatigue experiments of Charles Thompson, graduate student. Thompson planned to find out what makes a person become tired by using himself as a guinea pig. Dr Alma J Neill, acting head of the university psychology department, termed the method of experiment "too dangerous."

'World in Turmoil' Shelf Introduced at Public Library

A new reading shelf, designed to meet a present-day trend and need, was introduced at the Mansfield Public Library today, Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, announced.

The shelf has been designated "A World In Turmoil" and will carry only books dealing with present and vital world problems. New books will be added from time to time as they are published.

Books available now are:

"Czechs and Gemans" by Elizabeth Wiskemann, which is an absorbing study of the struggle in the historic provinces of Bohemia and Moravia. This book was completed last April so that it forms a prelude to the events of recent date, giving the past history of Bohemia, for some centuries a battleground between the Germans and Slavs.

"Democracy and Its Rivals" by Lloyd; "Mussolini's Roman Empire," Garratt; "Danube Flows Through Fascism," Van Til, "Peace With the Dictators," Angell, "Our Promised Land," Neuberger, "America Now," edited by Stearns; "Dissenting Opinions of Mister Westbrook Pegler."

The new volumes will go into circulation Tuesday.

JOB INSURANCE PAYMENTS WILL CUT WPA ROLLS

Expect 100 to Be Dropped in County When First Benefits Are Issued in 3 Weeks.

Further decrease in Richland county WPA rolls was seen today when the payment of unemployment insurance benefits gets underway in about three weeks.

Local WPA officials said they were not sure what effect the payment of benefits would have on work relief figures in the county, but estimates are that 100 workers will be dropped from the rolls when the first checks are mailed from Columbus early next month.

Approximately 1,000 are employed on various WPA projects in the county now. In the last 10 days nearly 100, mostly women, have been dropped from work relief.

Under the compensation act, any person working for private industry and having social security payments deducted from his salary during at least 20 weeks of 1938, and who is now unemployed, is eligible for benefits.

Continue For 16 Weeks.

These payments continue for 16 weeks if the individual is still unemployed and total up to 50 per cent of the salary during private employment, providing this amount is not over $15.

Persons now employed on WPA and whose claims for benefits are approved, are slated to be dropped from the rolls. However, when payments cease, they will be eligible for re-instatement, but will be required to wait for assignment to a project, WPA heads said.

Meanwhile Maurice K. Wells, manager of the Mansfield branch office of the unemployment compensation commission said that 658 persons in Richland and Morrow counties have filed claims for benefits since the office was opened here on Jan. 2.

ESCAPE TAXES

Dakota Residents "Spike' Near Beer For Cheaper Drink.

BISMARCK, N. D.—(AP)—Near beer spiked with grain alcohol has become so popular with North Dakotans as a beverage that state officials are going to ask the legislature to tax it.

Director A. J. Gerlach of the state regulatory department said consumers are buying near beer at 10 cents a pint instead of real beer at 15 cents and then fortifying the non-intoxicating malt with grain alcohol which retailers and wholesalers are selling "at almost cost price."

He said the practice is "completely disrupting the North Dakota liquor market and routine operation of the tax system.

At Long Last---A Scarlett

The selection of Vivien Leigh, young British actress as Scarlett O'Hara in the movie version of "Gone With the Wind," ends a two-year search. Producer David Selznick, making the announcement, said she was the only one among hundreds of applicants to fill all requirements.

FORUM NAMES GROUP TO HELP IN PROMOTING LEISURE ACTIVITIES

A committee of 15 young people to co-operate with the church and community to study and further leisure-time activities for young people in Mansfield was named at a meeting of the Community Christian Youth Forum last night at the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the Presbyterian church, addressed the youth group and led a discussion on the subject, "The Problem of Leisure."

"The right use of leisure has been the means of developing every great civilization and the improper use of leisure has resulted in the deterioration of every civilization," he told the young people.

The youth group, made up of Senior high school students, discussed the present status of recreational life in Mansfield and indicated the need for some center where youth could gather for wholesome leisure-time activities.

Those named to the committtee are William Layton, chairman; Mary Ann Ferguson, Janet Boughman, Ethel Mae Bogan, Adaline Wilging, Vivian Bone, Jean Bone, Margaret Hammond, Robert Meese, Don Finefrock, Arthur Axtell, Robert Larson, Willis E. Wygant, jr., Richard Sparks, and Eugene Lantz.

William Layton presided during the meeting, and Ruth and Eloise Husung conducted the devotional service. The next session will be held Jan. 29 at the Park Avenue Baptist church. An international program will be presented by Luben Kutukchieff, Bulgarian; N. K. Nakomura, Japanese, and Charles Walker, Negro from Oberlin college.

GIVES LECTURE ON PLUMBING

Member of N. Y. Research Staff to Speak Here Friday.

The dangers of improper plumbing and what constitutes proper water fixtures and connections will be discussed by Edward L. Penfrase of the Copper and Brass Research association, New York, when he appears here Friday to address a public meeting.

In connection with his lecture on "Cross Connections and Back Syphonage," Penfrase will show a motion picture, "Protect Your Health" illustrating the importance of drainage.

The meeting, which has been arranged by Fred Haag, city plumbing inspector, is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms on the fifth floor of the Farmers Bank building.

TRADE CLASSES OPEN TUESDAY

Second Semester of Extension School Continues 12 Weeks.

The second semester of the evening Trade Extension classes at Senior high school will begin at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Classes will be held each Tuesday and Thursday between 7 and 9 p. m. for a period of 12 weeks, and are open to all adults. Courses offered include mathematics, English, blue print reading, mechanical drawing, electrical theory, machine shop practice, and automobile mechanics.

The instruction staff is composed of members of the Senior high school faculty. They are V. H. Oberlander, director of the school, W. J. Harrison, H. R. Kinker, H. C. Miller, A. T. Owen, R. O. McFarland, and G. P. Van Arnum. Registrations can be made with Oberlander at the high school.

THEATERS

SELZNICK'S announcement that Vivian Leigh, English actress, will play Scarlett, finds Hollywood almost as ignorant of the actress as the fans. She has just come to Hollywood—interest in Laurence Oliver, 'tis said—and will be remembered only for her role in Robert Taylor's "Yank At Oxford." This was made in England, however. She played the bookseller's flirtatious wife who caused a lot of trouble. Miss Leigh—pronounced Lee—is vivacious and has ability. She is a blond. The remainder of the cast, however, is what thousands of fans asked for—Gable as Rhett Butler; Leslie Howard as Ashley, and Olivia de Havilland as Melanie.

Four-Star Picture.

Drama that is reminiscent of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is found in "Stand Up and Fight," one of the best pieces of film entertainment of the current season. Plantation life in the 1850's, slaves sold at auction and the inhuman treatment accorded the slaves that fell prey the runners, are depicted in the story. Robert Taylor as the dashing Blake Cantrell, has the best role he has had since "Yank At Oxford," while Florence Rice gets her most important role as Suzan, the little Yankee who fell in love with the southern aristocrat. Wallace Beery, Helen Broderick, John Qualen contribute a great deal to the quality of the film, which is being shown through Wednesday at the Ohio.

Refugees of the World.

The current issue of March of Time, entitled "The Refugee," is attracting considerable attention at the Madison where it is being shown. It is a dramatized version of the world's most tragic problem, which seems no nearer solution today than six months ago. The millions of homeless human beings, many of them victims of hatred and persecution, are shown as they face this problem. There are 6,000,000 of them in the world today. The main feature at the Madison is "The Young In Heart" with Janet Gaynor, Paulette Goddard, Doug Fairbanks, jr., Billie Burke and Roland Young.

New Racket.

"Federal Man Hunt," a Park theater feature, deals with a new type of racket—the "wildcat" bus companies that transport people across the country without giving them protection. Passengers are robbed and stranded miles from home and friends. The story deals with such a racket and the efforts of the law to apprehend the operators. Robert Livingston, John Gallaudet and June Travis have the major roles. "Lady For a Day" is also being shown.

A Talent Quest.

Behind those false whiskers on the hillbillies in "Kertucky Moonshine" are the Ritz Brothers, who leave their New York boarding house and rush to Kentucky in order to take part in a "talent quest" for hillbilly singers. With Tony Martin and Marjorie Weaver thrown in for romance, the picture provides comedy and musical entertainment. Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney in "Lord Jeff" is the second feature at the Ritz.

Music and Drama.

Two exceptionally good features are combined to make the Majestic bill for three days, starting tomorrow. There is "Rosalie" with Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell and a half dozen tuneful hits and Powell's dancing; and there is the four-star film, "Man Proof," with Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone, Rosalind Russell and Walter Pidgeon. The latter is the story of a girl who decided not to let marriage stand in the way of her romance and who is brought to her senses, not by the man, but by his wife.

To Security Board

One of the many nominations for high government offices sent to the senate for approval by President Roosevelt was that of Ellen S. Woodward of Mississippi as a member of the Social Security board. The term runs until August, 1943.

NEW T. B. CASES

4 More Discovered at Monthly Diagnostic Clinic.

Four new cases of tuberculosis were reported in Richland county today as the result of the monthly diagnostic chest clinic held at General hospital last Friday under the direction of Dr. T. L. Bliss of Akron.

Of the 10 suspects examined, four showed a positive test. Two of the new cases were from Shelby and one each was reported in Mansfield and in the county, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said.

Of the 38 patients examined at the quarterly recheck clinic held in connection with the diagnostic clinic, 22 cases of the disease were definitely established, while 16 showed negative tests.

Seven of the rechecked cases were from Mansfield, four from Shelby and 11 were from scattered parts of the county.

CRESTLINE—E. A. Shoup of Lincoln Way East submitted to an operation at Emergency hospital and is reported as well as can be expected.

Easy Meals For Busy Days Ahead

By IRENE OBERLIN
Home Service Department, Ohio Public Service Company.

Of course these are days when we have not a great deal of time to think of food and these following suggestions that have been sent in from time to time may tide you over on your busy day.

CREAMED ONIONS sound ordinary, but when you add to your white sauce a bountiful supply of grated cheese and top this in a casserole with fried noodles, it makes a very appetizing dish. If you like serve with mashed and well-seasoned squash. You may also serve with this broiled halves of tomatoes and creamed whole kernel corn.

Onion Soup.

½ lb. onions (sliced)
4 tablespoons butter
1 quart beef broth
½ teaspoon pepper
1 bouillon cube
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Grated Parmesan cheese
Toast slices made from hard rolls.

Sauce onions in butter, lightly—add broth and cook slowly forty-five minutes. Pour into individual servings and top with toast covered with grated cheese. May be placed under broiler a few minutes to brown the cheese.

Casserole of Salmon and Macaroni.

1 cup salmon
1 cup (cooked) macaroni
2 cups white sauce
(Made with evaporated milk and 1 cup chicken bouillon).

When mixed and poured into casserole—top with buttered bread crumbs and when ready to serve garnish with a wreath of minced pimento.

Cranberry Waldorf Salad.

Place rounds of cranberry jelly on lettuce leaf. Top with (half) slices of apple, celery, nuts and mayonnaise.

Cabbage Dish.

Brown two strips bacon slightly, add 3 cups of finely shredded cabbage with 1 cup sliced celery and 1 sliced onion. Season with salt, place cover on tightly and turn to low heat, simmering 8 to 10 minutes. You may add minced green pepper to this dish if you want additional flavor.

Tomato Custard.

1 tablespoon grated onion
½ cup cracker meal
(or fine bread crumbs)
2 cups canned tomatoes
pepper to taste
1 teaspoon salt

Bake forty-five minutes with molds set in hot water—slow oven 325 degrees.

Creamed Chicken Short Cake.

3 cups chicken gravy or cream sauce
1½ cups chicken (cut in pieces)
1 cup mushrooms (browned in butter
1 No. 2 can peas

Serve on biscuits spread with chopped egg and butter mixture or on freshly baked waffles. The peas may be added to the chicken mixture or used as an accompaniment on the serving platter.

Use this test for deep-fat frying of onions. When a piece of bread browns in one minute, add the onions and cook them about one and one-half minutes.

For something new and different spread baked ham with a half-cup of molasses and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. This gives a delicious flavor and a brown top. You can include a teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves for a spicy touch.

In Aristocratic Role

Here's a pleasant variation of the bread pudding theme that gets its individuality from molasses. Ten slices, stale bread, diced, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons pure New Orleans molasses, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, scalded, 2 tablespoons butter, melted. Arrange bread cubes in a well-greased baking dish. Beat eggs, molasses, sugar and salt together. Add milk and butter. Pour over bread cubes. Place in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) one hour or until firm. Top with whipped cream. Serves six.

Blind Sparkle

After a number of dustings, Venetian blinds usually need a good soap-and-water bath. Go over them with a soft sponge frequently dipped in warm, mildly sudsy water. Rinse thoroughly with warm water applied on a soft cloth or sponge. Wipe dry with soft cloth.

Save the leftover crusts when you make bread stuffing. Place them in a shallow pan on the back of stove or in a slow oven to dry, then roll them and store them in covered jar in dry place. They will come in handy for preparing escalloped dishes or coating croquette or cutlet mixtures

Simple Way To Barbecue Chicken

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Barbecued chicken has been a California treat since the days of Dons, but Joan Blondell is the first to find a way to achieve the barbecue flavor without the old-time fuss.

For a 2-pound chicken:
6 tablespoons fat or oil
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup catsup
Dash of tabasco sauce
1 garlic bud
1 medium sized onion

The chicken is split in half and browned on all sides in the melted fat or oil. The Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, sugar, catsup and tobasco sauce are combined in a large skillet. The finely chopped garlic and onion are tied in a bit of cheese cloth and added to the sauce. The chicken is placed in the sauce in a covered skillet to cook for about one hour.

This amount will serve three or four people, depending on appetite.

PECAN PIE

Two eggs
Butter size of an egg
1 cup pecan nuts
1 cup sugar
1 cup Karo syrup

Beat the eggs well, chop the nuts and cream butter. Mix all ingredients and pour into a pastry shell. Bake not quite 40 minutes in slow oven The pie is even more delicious if topped with vanilla ice cream.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Bread pudding may not sound exciting. But you will be surprised how delicious that nutritious, budget-slicing dessert really can be. It's an especially good winter dessert.

The trick that makes bread pudding good is good baking. The oven must be slow and the dish of pudding should be set in a pan of hot water. Bread pudding, in other words, should be baked the way you bake a custard because most bread puddings have their share of whole eggs or egg yolks.

An Aristocrat.

Orange bread pudding is an aristocrat of its kind Soak for ten minutes one cup of cubed bread (crusts discarded), two-thirds of a cup hot milk and a half-cup of orange juice. Mix them until the bread is blended so well with the liquid that you can't see it.

Then add half a cup of granulated sugar, one tablespoon of grated orange peel, one-fourth of a teaspoon of grated lemon peel, one-fourth of a teaspoon of salt and three eggs. (Use twice as many egg yolks as whole eggs if you are using up egg yolk leftovers) Ad two tablespoons of melted butter. Then pour the pudding into a buttered baking dish. Bake it forty minutes in a pan of hot water in a moderately slow oven. Cool and serve. Top with hard sauce flavored with almond, lemon and a speck of cinnamon

For Chocolate Lovers.

Here's a chocolate bread pudding with a tricky topping that should please the whole family Mix in a double boiler half a cup of cocoa, two-thirds of a cup of granulated sugar, two cups of cubed bread, one-eighth of a teaspoon of salt and three cups of milk. Heat until the mixture is smoking. Add one teaspoon of vanilla and four egg yolks Fill buttered individual baking dishes and bake thirty minutes, in hot water, in a moderately slow oven. Spread with meringue made by adding three tablespoons of granulated sugar to two beaten egg whites. Bake ten minutes—or until the tops are well browned. Cool and serve.

Caramel nut pudding is a delicious climax to luncheon or dinner. To make enough for serving four, soak for ten minutes one cup of cubed bread and two cups of hot milk. Add one-fourth of a cup of dark brown sugar, one-half a cup of raisins, one-third of a cup of broken nutmeats, one teaspoon of vanilla, one-eighth of a teaspoon of salt, two eggs and two tablespoons of melted butter. Bake in individual buttered dishes thirty-five minutes in hot water in moderately slow oven. Cool and carefully unmold.

To clean those smart looking transparent raincoats, spread them on a flat surface and rub them gently with a sponge or soft brush frequently dipped in warm water and mild soap suds. Sponge with cloth dipped in warm water and then wipe as dry as possible with soft cloth. Shake and let dry in room of moderate temperature—not near a radiator or register or the coat will stiffen.

and of course . . . my usual order of BREAD . . .
